

Rebel Grove

Your magical home for learning, connection, creativity & spiritual exploration.

A Magical Space & School Hosted in the Realms of HeartBeat

For the Wild, Weird & Woo

For those of us who know there is more to life than the hustle and grind. We gather to reclaim the magic in the mundane and rebel against the dominant systems that treat us like consumable machines. Together, we remember we are Nature.

You know what it's like to have to contort and shrink yourself to fit in. To feel like an outsider in rooms full of people. To be burnt out from trying to function in a world that was never built for the fullness of YOU.

This is a place to stop abandoning yourself in the gaps between who you are and who you've had to be to survive — a sanctuary to come home to your rhythms, your intuition, and your own knowing, instead of everyone else's rules.

What is the Rebel Grove?

For the spiritually adventurous, the curious, and the compassionate, Rebel Grove is a digital gathering space, online school, and magical membership program inspired by Nature.

Rebel Grove is Safrianna's paid membership for online group support and gathering. Part online community circle, part magical school, part coven, and part book club, together we learn, grow, and integrate. Consider it like a delightfully woke Hogwarts. This is a digital gathering space with forums, a chat, and access to ongoing live events + replays.

What Happens Inside the Rebel Grove?

Your Membership Includes...

Monthly Gatherings

Each month, you'll have access to three routine live calls + replays:

 A Guidance Circle — Bring questions, challenges, ideas or things you're navigating. This is your opportunity to get some "love seat" coaching, guidance, mentorship, or brainstorming.

 A Healing & Prayer Circle — A space for energetic work, guided practices, Reiki/Shamanic healing and meditation rather than intellectual/problem-solving work. We allow gentle release, cleansing, clearing, or claiming as needed based on the needs of the group.

 A Teaching & Learning Circle — Explore the current course or community-selected topic. Every month, I advance whatever our teaching is in our current course or voted-upon subject.

Asynchronous Spaces Within the Grove

With Membership, you'll get instant access to the Grove's digital playgrounds for ongoing community conversations and self-reflection via HeartBeat Forums & Chat

 The Rebel Grove — Orientation space and “general” channel for the community / school.

 Halls of Learning — Replays of learning content and opportunities to discuss materials, place to vote for upcoming classes.

 Bards Bonfire — Bi-Yearly live creative sharing circle replays, monthly creative prompts, and opportunities to contribute to publications as a part of your membership.

 Healers Sanctum — Replays of healing circles, occasional bonus healing practices, prayer requests, etc.

 Druids Circle — Replays of seasonal rituals, magical workings, immersion workshops, and other shared wisdom.

 Guidance Questions — Place to post guidance love seat requests, and replays of the guidance calls

 Rebel Grove Group Chat — A chatroom style channel, exclusively for members of the the Grove

FAQ

Who is the Rebel Grove for?

The Rebel Grove is for the wild, weird, and woo — magical misfits, creatives, visionaries, dreamers, and nature lovers — and those who are curious about exploring Earth-based spiritual thought and natural living, expanding their intuition, and playing with the magical possibilities in life.

It's built by and for people who are LGBTQIA+, neurodivergent, highly sensitive or intuitive, witchy, Druid, or drawn to other earth-based spiritual paths — and for anyone who's ever felt like an outsider who doesn't fit in linear and artificial systems.

Some questions to sit with: As a kid, were you fascinated with stones and leaves, cool-looking seeds or nuts, and convinced faeries were real? Did you desperately search for your missing Hogwarts letter (and were equally disappointed JK Rowling turned out to be a TERF)? Do you feel sensitive to the changing tides of the moon, or drawn to seasonal holidays like Halloween and May Day? If you've answered yes to a few of these, you're probably one of us.

You don't need to have a magical practice or any sense of having it "figured out." We're here to learn together, with and through each other, for the good of all. If you believe in a world free of violence where we live in communion with Mother Earth, this is your place. This is a space to ask the questions you're wondering about when it comes to spiritual gifts, guides, and other topics that we've been made to fear sharing with others.

What's the difference between Rebel Elements and Rebel Grove?

There are many elements in the Universe. So think of the Rebel Elements as the wider community where many different people may bring their inspiration and ideas to the table in our forums. The Rebel Elements community space is completely free for any who are willing to follow our guidelines for respect and compassion.

A grove is a small grouping of trees, usually clear of underbrush. The Rebel Grove is the inner sanctuary where the magical school, or membership, lives. The Rebel Grove is for those who want to go deeper with me in practice, support, and continued learning.

I've been burned by a group container before. How do I know this one will feel safe?

I hear you, and that caution is valid. I've been in groups that disappointed and even hurt me in the past, so I personally know a bad group experience can make you wary of trying again. I hold this space intentionally: I'm a licensed clinical professional counselor, I've been leading Wheel of the Year rituals since 2008, and grounding the group's energy is something I take seriously as the container-holder. I'm trauma-informed, and this is a space built on choice, not force — there's no one-size-fits-all here. The community is neurodivergent and queer-led, and I work in a multimodal way to meet people where they are.

I can't guarantee in advance that I'll account for everything that makes every single person feel safe from day one — no one honestly can. What I can promise is that I will arise to the occasion, listen, and respond if feedback or a need for change comes to light. We'll have community rules and expectations, while welcoming everyone to show up as themselves. You're also welcome to start in Rebel Elements, the free community, to get a feel for how I show up before committing to the Grove.

What if I have beliefs that I'm worried don't align with "earth-based spirituality" — like a more traditional or monotheistic faith?

Rebel Grove is non-dogmatic. You don't need to identify as a Druid, or replace your existing religious or spiritual beliefs, to participate. This is a space to explore Earth-based practices and seasonal rhythm alongside whatever you already hold, not instead of it. Druidry itself, which the Rebel Grove is largely inspired by, is not a religion. It is acknowledgement of the wonder and importance of the natural world, and our relationship with it.

I'm dealing with burnout / low capacity right now. Can I actually keep up with this?

The Grove is meant to be flexible, so you can participate how YOU want. There is NO expectation that you show up to everything or participate in any particular way, ever.

Everything is designed to flex with you — show up live or asynchronous, depending on your social and schedule needs. There is no “keeping up” with. You are never behind here. You're not required to watch all three calls a month or come to the sessions. You might want to have access to the replays to watch whenever you're ready, or to ensure you always have access to the Wheel of the Year ceremonies.

How do the replays work? Will I be recorded?

In order to continue fostering a sense of community, universality, and collaborative healing, I will record all the calls. Replays will be privately uploaded to YouTube (since I don't have to pay for storage there), but they will be Unlisted, therefore unsearchable, and only accessible via the link provided in the appropriate Rebel Grove replay channel.

If you come live, you still have the power of choice when it comes to being recorded. You can turn your camera off if you don't want to appear in the community-only replays, and participate through the text chat instead if you'd rather engage without appearing on the replay. When someone types in the chat, I will verbally respond by reading/acknowledging the comment, but not mentioning the person by name. Some people may come to most calls; others will come as they're able or called. Neither is the right way to engage.

What is the call schedule?

I plan to rotate the time of day I host each routine circle so people in different timezones or with different schedules have a better chance of catching at least one live each month. My current plan is 12 Noon Eastern, 4 PM Eastern, and 7 PM Eastern. Replays are always available in the Grove via private links.

Money is tight right now – is this worth the investment?

If money is your only objection, reach out — I do everything in my power to make this accessible to people for whom cost is the real barrier. A sliding scale option is available now, so you can choose what membership model is right for you.

Here's how the value breaks down if you were to pay for everything separately:

- 3 live workshops/replays per month at $20 each × 12 months = $720/year
- Wheel of the Year Rituals: $40 × 8 = $320/year
- Immersions: $111+ × 2 = $222+/year
- Course access: Anchored by Earth (included as a part of your membership) alone will sell for at least $150 a la carte for non-members once the full live teaching is complete.

Membership gives you access to all of my events, replay library, and several courses at a savings.

As an early adopter, you also have the opportunity to lock in a lower rate for as long as I run Rebel Grove, which is intended to be ongoing as a predominant way I offer my magic in the world personally and professionally. Thanks for supporting me in the earliest stages! The baseline monthly/yearly price will go up for members who join after the founding period closes.

What are the long term plans for this community?

The way I see it, as the community grows, so does this container's capacity. My future plans include specialized clubs, guilds, or smaller interest-based cohorts, and more instructors when the Grove scales beyond my capacity as the initial teacher and space holder. Ultimately, that's the goal. Remember, if you want more concentrated 1:1 time with me specifically, that's also available outside of the Grove.

Will there be more moon ceremonies?

I recently stepped back from hosting monthly new moon ceremonies, aside from eclipses and one free new moon Zoom per quarter for Rebel Elements, the free community. If enough Grove members want monthly new moon ceremonies, I'll consider hosting the "spare" moons for those in the Grove specifically.

Do I get a say in what's taught?

Yes — it's my intention to co-create as much of this together as possible, with votes on what I focus on next for teaching/learning materials. The earlier you join, the more sway you have in shaping the initial direction of this community.

Is there an in-person component?

For members local or semi-local to the Frederick, Maryland area, I want to create opportunities to gather in person 2 to 4 times per year for a day event, at no planned additional cost.

What can I expect from the first Immersion — Playing in the Cauldron of Self?

On November 9th, 2026 at 4PM ET, I will officially open the halls to the Rebel Grove. We'll kick off with a ceremony and our first community immersion — Playing In the Cauldron of Self. Five days of self-exploration through awareness, ownership, acceptance, love, and claiming — my alchemical process to embrace the magic brewing in our shadows.

Day 1 & Day 5 (Friday, November 13th) will have live zoom calls at 4PM Eastern Time (3PM Central, 2PM Mountain, 1PM Pacific). Days 2, 3, and 4, I will drop a download into the Rebel Grove chat & make a forum post for deeper discussions and for returning to the material to use again in the future.

Expect gentle, self-loving shadow work, compassionate guidance, and as always, magic!
