

Heroes Can Have Kids Too...!

09.03.2018

ImmortalDesire

First A03 Collection!

In Four Parts

Updates Fridays

Overview

A My Hero Academia fanfic series that starts with the first years' return from summer break, and ends with them all eventually having children (jumps to the future after Part One). Told in four "parts" with the potential for five. Realistically speaking, however, Part Five is highly unlikely as it would be a full-scale story about an original character (Izuku's child).

Goals

1. Finish Part One by Fall 2019!!
2. Somehow update regularly (every other Monday)
3. Finish Chapter 2 this weekend!

Part One: Never Will We Ever Have Kids!

M/M, No Archive Warnings, Midoriya Izuku/Todoroki Shoto, Midoriya Izuku & Uraraka Ochako, Midoriya Izuku & Iida Tenya, all other relationships are so minor, like I can't make them big tags, so I'll tag them here haha, Iida Tenya/Uraraka Ochako, Bakugo Katsuki/Kirishima Eijiro, Yaoyorozu Momo/Jirou Kyoka, Tokoyami Fumikage/Shoji Mezo, fake babies, robot babies, Childhood Development class, totally normal high school class, still canon-centric, just before hero licensing exam, (because I don't want to deal with that haha), basically spoilers up to season 3!, comical to-a-point, fake/pretend relationship, it has a happy ending though guys, slight angst, fluff, fluffiness, fake pregnancies, shenanigans, class 1-A shenanigans, "adulthood" sucks, I promise this fic is serious!, Bakugo Katsuki swears a lot, I still love that this is a recognized tag, which reminds me about the Endeavor one now, Enji's Bad Parenting, class 1-A, class 1-B, tododeku, imagine if yaomomo could actually create babies O_O, some heavy makeout scenes, but it never goes there guys, don't get your hopes up lol, there may be implied intercourse though, supporting OC, he's minor guys, but I hope you like him at least haha, crack treated seriously, wow this is a literal wall of tags...

Summary

Izuku looked down at the large wicker basket placed on his desk mere moments after Amori-sensei passed on to his next victim. The swaddled form was entirely motionless, and the white blanket was wrapped so tightly around his head that the chubby cheeks bulged outward. Although the face was completely still, the color of the flesh was all too real for Izuku, and its lightly-freckled face gave him the shivers.

"I think it has your hair." Izuku jumped at the sudden opinion but in all honesty, it was really the tiny—yet prominent—light green curl that stuck at the top of the wrap that caused him the biggest scare.

Kaminari was right: this was going to be the worst semester of his life...

—

In which UA has a required Childhood Development course for all tracks, with the hero course's aim to show the students that heroes can have families too (if they can learn to balance it right).

Opening Notes

I'm back from my extremely-long hiatus while I got my shit together, failing my promise to finish that Voltron fic. Yet here I am—starting a new fic. To be fair, I am a little too into this fandom at the moment as well as crafting cosplay and working (I cosplay my hero as much as Yuri on Ice now aha), so I'm going to try to restore my terrible track by updating this one regularly. This is my first My Hero Academia fanfic! :O Let me know if the personalities are off since I'm not very accustomed to these characters still (even if I have read quite the massive amount of fanfics by now as well as avidly watch the anime...)

I have art of the instructor that debuts in this fic, but it's on paper so whenever I get around to scanning it in I'll post a link to the imgur in the end notes. For now, ya'll can deal with the description :) He will make an appearance in a future fic of mine, since that's what I originally created him for, but that fic is still a giant question mark to me so that's not for a while yet (it's basically one long-ass Shoto adventure since he's my absolute fav and needs some more lovin').

Fanfiction mostly takes place from Izuku's pov (in third-person limited though), but there will be bonus chapters from Shoto's pov. While Shoto is my fav, I felt that this piece would be best told from Izuku's pov is all. There may also be bonus chapters from other characters' pov, but that's still up in the air. It'll be a surprise I guess .-.

Ending Notes

What did you think? Yell at me in the comments all you want—they fuel my desire to update (on time lol).

Scheduled updates are every other Monday (unless specified otherwise)!

Feel free to leave comments on my collection overview document to see my plans/goals that will be added as I write-on, or read the chapters in a doc instead (they'll be linked).

Although I'm a Graphic Designer with a degree now, I'm not a great digital artist, so I won't be creating artwork for this fic. However, I am definitely not opposed to receiving art for it :)

Chapters

I. Prologue

Third person omniscient pov leading into the first day of the Childhood Development course, then Izuku's pov respectively. This is the set-up to the most unexpected class of the young heroes' lives.

II. What Kind of Class is This?

The first few months in one chapter, flying by. Slows when the final project rolls around and ends on the first day. Izuku realizes just how doomed he really is.

III. Day One

All Might enters his Hero Training course to one chaotic surprise! Izuku is the only one not having a problem with his infant while the others openly struggle. It's a disaster that throws the number one hero's carefully-crafted lesson plans practically out the window.

He honestly should've expected the unexpected at UA a long time ago.

IV. Week One

Izuku agrees to take the brunt of the baby care for the first week, and boy does it suck. He seriously debates whether he really wants kids in the future or not. He envies Todoroki's freedom and dreads the weekend visit home.

V. Week Two

The Hero Licensing Exam comes upon them, whether Izuku's ready or not. Thankfully for them, Amori-sensei has a heart enough to open up his "daycare" for the event, watching over the little terrors only for that day. The week really kicks off after they retrieve their babies, although Izuku has some more breathing room since the infant is passed onto Todoroki for the week.

Unfortunately for Todoroki, he has to juggle his extra practicals along with everything else now. What a time to have the infant.

VI. Bonus: Todoroki's Weekend

[Placement of this chapter is subject to change, as I am not entirely sure of what to write for it. May be pretty short to be honest.]

#halfway point :3

VII. Week Three

Some changes have to be made when Izuku and Todoroki's grade takes a serious blow after the weekend. While it was entirely Endeavor's fault, Amori-sensei would never believe such a truth, so the two had to accept the hit and a new baby from Yaoyorozu. Izuku decides that their trade-off system does more harm than good, and then brainstorms over how to raise their failing grade.

VIII. First Weekend Together

Izuku visits home as usual for the weekend, except this time he brings Todoroki along. What could possibly go wrong?

IX. Week Four

Finals week is just on the horizon now, and Izuku still has yet to figure out how to balance studying for the exams and caring for his robotic offspring. On top of that, the dance creeps up on him yet again and he comes to the horrifying conclusion that he still has yet to ask anyone as his "date."

...Or is he expected to take Todoroki?

X. Thank God it's Friday!

Since all his classes were behaving well for once, Amori-sensei opened up his "daycare" yet again, granting his students a baby-free weekend for the dance. To celebrate, class 1-A decides to hold a dorm party that Friday evening, to which everyone surprisingly participates.

But what happens when the games take a romantic turn?

XI. Dance the Stress Away

Izuku's anxiety hits its peak when he has to finally confront the question that had been haunting him since the beginning of the month, the day of the dreadful event upon him. He and his fellow students spend the entire day shopping around on yet another mall trip, preparing for the dance.

Izuku comes to the realization that Amori-sensei had fantastic romantic foresight—either that, or he’s got some incredible luck with randomizers.

XII. Finals and Farewells

The dreaded finals consume Izuku’s week, and his infant is particularly relentless during which as well. At least the game of life finally ends after Amori-sensei’s final.

But is Izuku really willing to let go?

Final chapter!!!

Opening Notes for Chapter III:

As always, let me know what you think below!