✿ PERSONALITY ✿

(+) curious, resilient, open-minded, cheerful, kind

(-) nosy, impulsive, frivolous, daydreamer, insecure

Yuna is a curious individual, always ready for an adventure. She tends to ask questions in any situation because of the desire to satisfy this curiosity of hers. Yuna is also resilient, not backing down or surrendering easily just because a situation is not in her favor. She is also resilient when it comes to her beliefs and relationships. Open-mindedness is another trait of hers. Yuna doesn't like to judge others or their situations since that is something she would want others to do for her (treat others the way you want to be treated!!!). She is a cheerful gal and desires to spread happiness to others. Yuna is a kind person, going out of her way to help others (including animals).

While Yuna can be seen as a generally positive person, she also has negative personality traits just like every other human being. Due to her curious nature, Yuna can be quite nosy. If she finds something she is especially interesting, she will go through great lengths to get an answer. Yuna can also be impulsive, sometimes not thinking about the consequences of her actions. Not only can she be nosy and impulsive, Yuna is quite frivolous, in the way that she tends to avoid sensitive topics until they cannot be avoided. She also brushes things over with a laugh, hoping that would help. Yuna also likes to daydream, which triggers her curiosity. Deep down, Yuna is an insecure person, an aspect of hers that she tries to forget about by focusing her attention on others (directing her actions/kindness to others) or other things (hence, her curiosity).

✿ HISTORY ✿

Yuna is the only child of the Sasaki couple, Yuto and Hina. The Sasaki household is known for their prominent flower arrangement school - Sasaki School of Ikebana. As the only child, Yuna was brought up as a potential heir for the school. Thus, she was taught about how to be elegant and reserved. Growing up, Yuna's parents would train Yuna in the art of ikebana after school. However, as a child, Yuna was extremely curious. She would often miss ikebana classes to go on little adventures around the Sasaki school. From climbing trees to pick fruits, to messing with trails of ants, and to playing with animals out on the streets, Yuna desired to see and understand the world around her. In the beginning of Yuna's escapades, her parents would get furious until they realized Yuna was naturally gifted with the ability to create beautiful flower pieces. Not only that, Yuna was able to keep up appearances when it mattered. As a result, Yuto and Hina gradually began to accept Yuna's adventures as long as she was doing well in school and came home safely.

After Yuna graduated middle school, Yuto and Hina thought long and hard as to what school Yuna should attend. Taking into account Yuna's curiosity and open-mindedness, they decided to enroll her into Tenshoutei Gakuen, the first co-ed school. They hoped that Yuna's curiosities would die down after high school so Yuna could finally settle down and take over the ikebana school. Yuna herself was excited to attend Tenshoutei Gakuen. She could only imagine the diversity that awaited her as the school was the first coeducational school. While she is unsure if she wants to succeed the Sasaki School of Ikebana after she graduates, Yuna cares deeply for her parents who raised, cared, and taught her. Hence, she does not want to disappoint them. Yuna is hoping that Tenshoutei Gakuen will give her the knowledge and experience that will help guide her future.

Misc:

- ❀ Yuna may appear reserved at first (but that's just for appearance sake)
- ❀ If she's serious, she can sing pretty good
- ❀ Cannot draw...or cook. Fairly confident she can though
