

STRATEGIES TO SUPPORT WORD SOLVING

I Can Get Un-Stuck! ● Stop. 💡 Try something!	Sound it. → ● ● ●
Look for Chunks wing ✓	Sit Look for Small words

NO
GUESSING

Prompts for Parents:

- Look at each letter and say the sound. Blend the sounds together.
 - Do you see a part of the word that you already know?
 - Let's cover up a part of the word and read the part we see. (For example, if the word is jumping, cover up the -ing)

Keep in mind that some words are irregular (said, want, was, etc). For irregular words, it is okay to give your child the word. However, this would be a good word to work on (see Heart Word Method)

Our goal is for our readers to stop themselves when they realize something didn't make sense and re-read to correct the mistake(s). This is called monitoring. Correcting readers right on the spot can hinder them from learning how to make sense of what they read for themselves. So instead of jumping right in the moment the word is misread, wait until the end of the sentence. At that point you could prompt, "You said _____. Does that make sense?"