

Faith Communities with Liaisons to Interfaith Creation Care of the Triangle (ICCT) in NC

You can scroll down to see the list of faith communities with ICCT Liaisons below.
Liaisons connect Triangle faith communities to ICCT so:

- Liaisons can share their congregation's Creation care activities and needs with the network,
- their congregations can benefit more from ICCT resources, and
- they can help build an even more vibrant Creation care community in the Triangle.

We are looking for a partner in each faith community who will help ensure your faith community is informed about ICCT events and resources and make ICCT aware of your faith community's priorities and Creation care activities.

A good way to start is to look over each ICCT newsletter as it arrives and share items of interest with your justice or creation care teams and with others in your congregation who are interested in Creation care. You may choose to submit certain items from the newsletter for publication in your congregation's weekly email newsletter.

Please let us know if you're interested in learning more about making a small commitment of your time to be a liaison; you can give us your contact information at this link and we will get in touch with you.

If you would like to contact a liaison from one of the faith communities, please email ICCT at ICCTriangle@gmail.com and we will put you in touch. You can also see a list of

Sample letter for liaisons to adapt to introduce their ICCT role to their faith communities:

For no. months/a year I am connected to an interfaith network dedicated to the care of Creation, Interfaith Creation Care of the Triangle \(ICCT\) and I'm serving as the liaison between name of your faith community and ICCT.

The network was founded early in 2019 by members of twenty faith communities in the Triangle area. It works within and across communities of faith to urgently fulfill our sacred duty to love and protect Creation, address our changing climate, and ensure justice for all life. The network is guided by faith, informed by science, and focused on environmental racial justice.

The ICCT network includes over 450 people of many faiths including Baha'i, Buddhist, Catholic, Hindu, Jewish, Islamic and Protestant. Click here for a list of faith communities to which ICCT members belong.

Three ICCT Action Teams are working to support Creation care in faith communities by developing and providing resources in the areas of Youth Engagement , Earth-Friendly Practices and Advocacy. You're invited to join us at virtual meetings and in person events.

You can find information on ICCT resources, events and meetings at the website, www.InterfaithCreationCare.org. You can contact ICCT to learn more, join their newsletter mailing list, or volunteer to get involved by joining an action team or a leadership team at ICCTriangle@gmail.com.
