

Macalester College

Theater and Dance Department

Dance and Spirit in Mongolian Dance Sign-Up

Presented in conjunction with
The Kofi Annan Institute for Global Citizenship's
International Roundtable

Venue: Fox Dance Studio, T120

Instructor: Su Rong-Na

Date and Time (CST): Friday October 30th, 4:45 pm - 6:15 pm

Mongolian Chinese dance artist Rong-Na Su believes that our bodies hold memories of generations, and are home to souls that traverse time and space. She says, "At the beginning of dance, it was a medium of conversation between humans, our ancestors, and unseen spirits." In contemporary societies, dance plays multiple roles, but it remains an important way for us to turn the gaze inward, and to commune with the more-than-human world, and the bygone and future generations. As part of the 33rd International Roundtable with the theme "Engaging Monstrosity, Invoking Spirits: Hauntings of Home and Exile," Rong-Na Su offers a Mongolian dance workshop that will support movers in their search for grounding and connections.

This is a BAREFOOT class, please arrive ready and on time. No prior dance experience is necessary.

Name	Email
Hui Wilcox	hwilcox@macalester.edu
Amelia Gregg	agregg2@macalester.edu
Angelina Xu	axu1@macalester.edu
Zora Shi	zshi1@macalester.edu

