Incident Report:

I (Blanco Verde) was called to D-block through comms of someone screaming for backup on the Gensec frequencies when I was at D block finally we heard one last transmission of a scream and radio static. Investigating into D-block further we started hearing eerie noises such as unsettling music and screaming, and then many D-class started appearing out of thin air, they were all colored a blueish hue, and none of us could get close to any of them to touch or try to communicate with them but they did seem to be physical when a class-C worker pulled out a gun and shot one it dropped dead instantly and then disappeared. Later other things started materializing, such as disfigured bodies and ropes. At a point, 4 bodies were strung up over the center of D-block, and as we attempted to get them down, they all disappeared with no trace. Then a little while later we saw “it” for the first time (refer to the attached image above) it would appear and then disappear going behind corners or closing doors, then as we followed it after it closed the door on us it started to communicate with us (not while its body was there) it got few words in before a raid by the Chaos Insurgency happened. After the raid, we came back to D block. It started appearing again then when I placed down a reality anchor it started talking to us again it asked “How many have you fed to the dogs, how many have you tortured, how many have you killed?” when we asked who it was referring to it said D-class and we asked if there was any deal we could make with it. It didn't give a direct response, but the message seemed clear, no. After that, the entire site felt strange it felt hostile, and it felt not good, then it started counting down, and when it finished its countdown it attacked we managed to kill it or at least knock it down where an XI-8 burned its body in half, I picked it up and it started speaking again and said it would return that the “collective damned grow” stronger and return, from someone they thought it said “13 days” but I cannot confirm after it dissolved into the floor no trace was left.
