Hello Thapelo,

I had the chance to look at your 'Forex Trading Academy.' and I'm reaching because the overall design of your website is set up in a way that makes customers lose trust in your product.

And not feeling comfortable paying just because of the website's look leading to potential customers clicking off your website and moving on.

Re-designing your website would allow for all these problems to fade leading to more customers joining your academy and seeing you as a professional as the site is now well built.

Would you be interested in scheduling a time for a brief 5 minute chat on how we can rebuild your website to have these effects?
