“Alright ladies and gentlemen bases are loaded but two outs the outcome of this game is in the hands of batter number 14 Tomiko Asurīto!” The announcer called out as she stepped up to the home plate. “Alright you can do this..” she says to herself getting ready to swing it being the last inning and being her team's last chance to pull off a win. Glaring at the batter preparing for the pitches before racking up two strikes and one ball. “Come on focus, you got this..!” She says to herself, focusing harder before the pitcher tossed the ball once more. Tomiko swings and hits the ball dead on launching into the air and soaring out of the playing field “Homerun and with that the game is over folks!!” The announcer called out as she and her teammates run the bases in victory before shaking the other team's hands.

Tomiko Asurīto is another student attending new Honnōji Academy who is the head of the academy's baseball team. after witnessing an attack from a life fiber infused humans while celebrating her victory with her younger brother and father. She worked her way to the three star rank but much like Minako thought a high life style was pointless and lives in the one star area of new Honnō city. When Necessary she acts like the motherly figure to her little brother as their mother passed away from cancer when she was twelve years old and her brother was only two so he doesn't remember a lot about her aside from stories. She is very competitive and dedicated when it comes to playing baseball, having impressive swinging power, speed and stamina for someone of her age.

“You're so cool sis you sent that ball all the way to the moon!” Hokuto said, jumping up a bit, acting like he was soaring. “ Hehe, a bit of an exaggeration don't you think..?” She laughs a bit. “Exaggeration or not you did a great job your mother would be proud” her father said to her smiling as they went out to celebrate.” Yea I'm sure she was watching from the other side” She said as they went into a restaurant to eat. “ Man, I don't think I should've eaten that much..” she said as they walked out late. “Oh come on, we're celebrating, ” Hokuto said to her. “I'm sure one day eating a bit more than usual won't hurt,” her father looked over. “ Yea I guess you're ri-?!” Their eyes widened a bit as they heard someone scream out.

They leaned around a corner seeing a life fiber infused human grabbing a couple of girls “?! They're on the team I faced earlier..!” They stared shocked at what they were seeing.”Just...what the hell is that thing..?” Her father asked while terrified at the sight of the creature. “Gh damn it those two look hurt and need help..dad can you take them to a hospital..?” She looked over. “Yea but how do you plan on getting to them..?” He asked, looking worried. “ I'm gonna get its attention..”she said, pulling her bat and a baseball out of her bag. “NO YOU ARE NOT..!” He said in a whispering hall. “Dad, if we don't, that thing is going to kill them..! I'll be fine I promise.." she gives him a reassuring look before he sighed and nodded getting ready. She walked out from their hiding spot and tossed up her ball and hits it with her bat smacking the creature in the back of the head " Hey you ugly bastard need one more ?!" She called out to it. It growled looking over to her tossing the girls on the ground to come back for. "Oh shit..!!" Her eyes widen a bit as she runs when it chases after her.

"Shit shit how is something that big that fast..?!" She looked behind her as it kept chasing her. She pants heavily hiding around the corner in an alley thinking she escaped it as she looked around the corner till it smashed through the wall behind her. " what the hell is with this thing..!?" She gripped her bat and swung it downwards on its arm as it tried grabbing her before swinging it at its head making a loud ping from the impact. "Heh..-?! " her eyes widened as it didn't look phased going to swing again till it swats her into a brick wall breaking her arm. "GAAAH!" She glared up at it as it grabbed her by her hair and lifted her up off the ground before grabbing her leg and injuring it to keep her from running again. AH ! Let go of me damn it..!! I said LET GO..!!" She jabbed the end of her bat into its eye making it roar out as it dropped her covering its bleeding eye. Originally looking to capture her it disregarded that and glared enraged over its damaged eye about to stomp on her head and feed on her corpse until it was smacked away by a wooden sword "You'll be fine just rest there for now I'll kill this thing.." Uzu Sanageyama walked past her resting his wooden sword over his shoulder activating his Goku Uniform as she fell unconscious.
