

Image #1: This image depicts just how society influences not only adults but also younger audiences to achieve what society deems as a beautiful woman who in today's society is extremely filtered. The image depicts societal standards through one's self-esteem and self-image. Surrounding the little ones are needles, shots, and other factors used to fix these imperfections. The background states different insecurities and imperfections in wording using magazine fonts such as "Aging, Fashion, Chubby, underrated, dull, uneven skin, weight, makeup, and more." In today's society, women are heavily influenced due to the media such as celebrities, influencers, and content produced by celebrities and content creators. Society has normalized filters and editing gadgets to present unrealistic beauty levels that are affecting younger individuals as they grow up and develop over time.

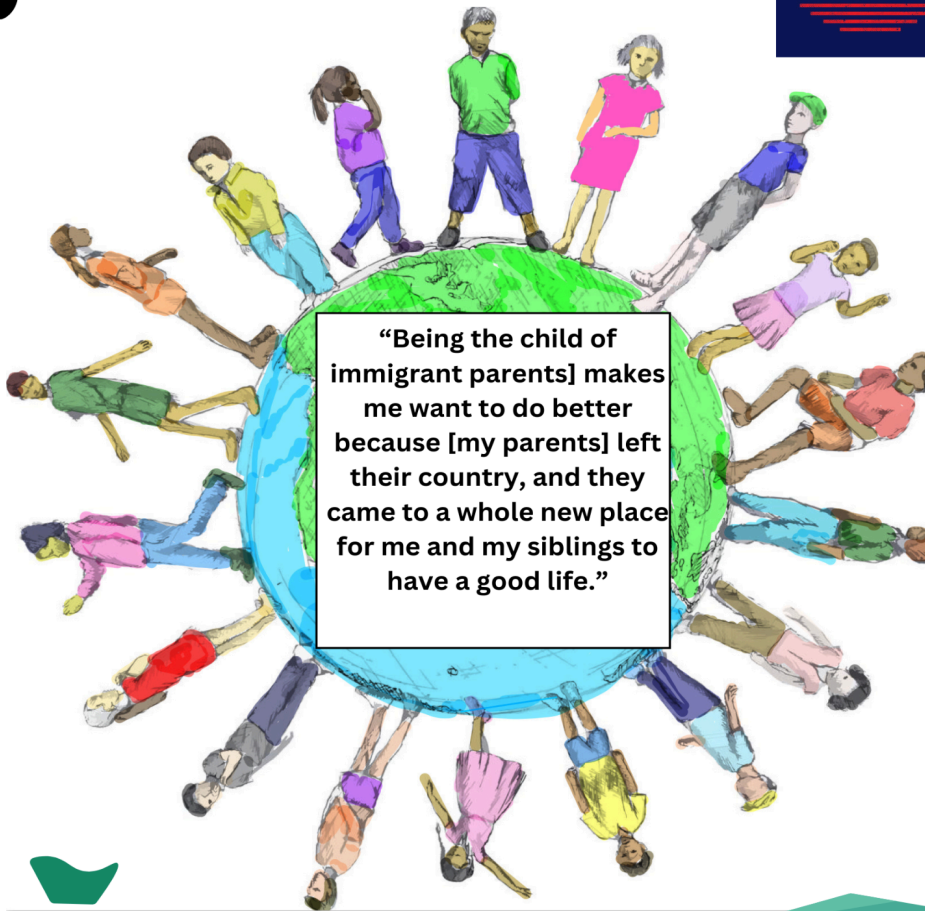

Image #2: This culture jam image captures the representation of diversity and power as it demonstrates children of immigrant parents walking across the globe. This image is an important message that highlights inspiration and motivational aspects where children want to succeed due to the sacrifices and obstacles they face. It portrays a universal idea on the idea of chasing and wanting a better life such as becoming successful and using the tools presented to become those individuals their parents want them to be. I created this image because it depicts and portrays motivation and aspirations for those upcoming generations who want to make their parents proud. Dreams are also depicted as these children are all walking together throughout the globe as they all strive for a brighter future. As a child of an immigrant, I deeply resonate with this culture jam due to the aspiration and desire I had as a child to make not only my mom proud but those back at home. This quote resonates with me as it portrays determination and passion for accomplishing certain goals.
