

Linking your Zooburst book to a web page:

To link your Zooburst book to a webpage you will want to have two windows open in your browser - Zooburst and your web page.

Start by opening your Zooburst book. You can either share a link, so that viewers will click on a word (like the book title or the student's name) and open a new window to see the book, or you can "embed" the book so it appears directly on your web page.

To share a link, click on "share" and then copy the direct link. From there, go to your web page and paste that link where ever you want it to appear.

To embed your book, instead of clicking on "share," click on "embed." This will give the "code" you need to embed. Then, return to your web page and find the "html source" icon and paste the embed code there. This will be a little different depending on what platform you're using for your web page.

For example, if your web page is a Wix page, you would click on Add -> Widgets -> Html. Then click "settings" and paste your embed code there.
