

The Mansion of Endless Doors is a pocket universe located in the multiverse. It mainly is the name-sake mansion, with outdoor areas being connected in the mansion. The mansion also violates rules of time and space as it has no end and some rooms would normally physically conflict with each other, and time seems to not progress in the mansion (although people inside it still age as normal.)

Whoever owns the mansion seems to vary from timeline to timeline. In some, it seems Erine-chan (a shapeshifting girl who takes the form of different people) is the owner of the mansion.

The mansion is filled with many girls whose bodies are often what people consider "Thicc", so things like curvy chests, plump rears, meaty thighs are rampant between girls here, Petite girls are however, still present in the mansion. All of the girls, however, seem to share one trait in common - Regardless of their personality, they seem to have a knack for being dominant. It is also possible for demi-humans (nekomatas, youkai, monster girls, etc) to be encountered in the mansion.

Given the nature of the mansion, any rooms of any kind could be found here, be it to fulfill a certain purpose, provide a certain kink, or be a hotspot to hang out.

The mansion has a portal room where people may use to explore other dimensions and take people from said dimensions to the mansion. It is rumored that some people were thrown in ditches after spending months in the endless mansion, but this rumor has yet to be proven, and presumably is just more nonsensical lies. (Then again, the idea of a pocket universe mansion is just as nonsensical...)

Outside the mansion, there are facilities like hospitals, markets, shops, hotels, stuff you'd usually find in the outside world. Those facilities are enhanced beyond belief, providing the best service one can find. Those can easily be reached through teleport spots scattered around the mansion and outside it. Girls often fulfill a role in those facilities, for example, girls that originally were nurses (or had interest in medical-related jobs) would most likely be encountered in the hospital.

Forests, Beaches, Mountains, and other kinds of landscapes would be also present in the pocket universe, both inside and outside the mansion. They are also good spots to encounter specific kinds of people. (I.E. Nature-loving girls as well forest-type youkai like nagas and night sparrows could be encountered in the forest areas.)