

pCharacter Template (Required)
Ask a staff member for help if needed.

---

Face claim (character image) is optional.

Basic Information

Full Name: Liesl Lieberstein

Other Names (Nicknames, Titles, etc): Her magic can transform her into a magical warrior which she named herself "Athena Lionheart".

Age & Birthday: 23, 1st of April

Sex & Sexuality: female. pan/bi, she feels that her appearance makes her undateable compared to her other self.

Race: Human

Birthplace & Current Residence: Macaria, she travels around.

Social Status & Occupation: Commoner, when she is Liesl and she works in a travelling cloth merchant alongside her adoptive mother and her family. They create clothing or fix any clothing a customer pays them to. They also sell materials, sewing materials and strings. She is pretty well off. Secretly, she seems to have a lot of money and valuables stored off

With her other identity of Athena, she seems to be this magical warrior who helps the weak and protects others from harm. Athena seems to be a wealthy and well off warrior since the villages she saves reward her as a token of their gratitude. She does have a well known status on lands like Asteria, Lamora and Thales. She's not the most famous person out there of course so she can go out without being recognised but a lot of people who use magic and are warriors like her can recognise her.

Relationship Status: She is single

Education Level: It's not high and she's not much of an intelligent person academically. She knows how to read and write. She does want to extend her education but she often has the anxiety of being taught and failing at something.

Physical Information

General Appearance (Clothing, Unique Features, Hair Color, etc): Liesl is a human who is a one in a million, billion and maybe even trillion. She is covered in dark green spots around her body like a dalmatian. It is very long and wavy that reaches down her shoulders with two braids that are tied between the strands of her thick hair. She has dark olive eyes. Her face is covered in light green freckles. She has a very gentle face with eyes that are always wide and pure adding to her innocent visage. She has a very slender but fit body. It looks very healthy and fit. She has the height of 5'8. Her outfits would be a plain light turquoise dress with a white apron. She wears a white frilly shirt with a long dress that has a gradient of dark green to light green with white specks to look like a night sky, it is worn in three different ways like in the image. She wears brown boots with heels and black laces.

Items On Person (Mundane items, not weaponry): An important item which she always wears, even when bathing would be her magical necklace. It is the source of her magic and it's the one that enables her to transform into her other identity.

Speech (Accents, Mannerisms, etc): She speaks in a gentle and soft voice. She sounds very pleasant to talk to and she seems to rarely raise her voice. If she lived in this world, she would have a German or Austrian accent. When she is in her Athena form, her voice seems more assertive and brave. Athena sounds less shaky and nervous when interacting with people. She still has her soft voice but she sounds more brave since her other form does give her a huge confidence boost. Athena sounds like your typical hero with meaningful speeches like “stop evil doers! In the name of love and justice, I will punish you!”.

Personality Information

General Personality (Positive Traits & Flaws): On the outside, Liesl appears to be a timid, secretive and quiet young woman. She appears to be a very polite and respectful person when meeting random strangers. She isn't the type to initiate conversations with people and she tends to chill quietly to herself. She tends to let people talk to her and struggles to try to add anything into the conversation. She is a very gentle woman who is very careful on how she walks and even how she holds certain things like small animals. She is a very lonely person who seems to live a very introverted life with no friends or anything. Her adopted mother is always concerned about her being lonely.

When she opens up to someone, she is the kindest and wholesome person ever. She likes to constantly praise people to make them feel more confident and she hopes they praise her back. As a pretty wholesome and quite pure hearted person, it's very rare for her to feel full of malice. However, if people mock her appearance or treat it as something to gawk at, she struggles to forgive them even if they go down on their knees to beg for her forgiveness. Even bridging her with money, food or anything nice would make her judge them. She's not someone open to bribery.

She struggles to accept her appearance. She often has a hard time accepting herself, due to a history of people refusing to accept her appearance and being treated as a freak. She gets treated as just a human with undesirable traits. She even feels it's her fault for the way she turned out and she would be the one to take any opportunity to change herself. She had lost hope in finding someone to settle down with.

However there's a deep part of her that has not lost hope since her adoptive mother and her extended family managed to accept her so there must be other people who will accept her for her appearance.

She suffers from Autism and anxiety. Obviously she is not aware that she has it since she lives in a period before those terms are recognised by the public. She tends to be less social than most people, mask her true feelings and have a high hyperfixation on anything her brain takes an interest in. Since she has anxiety, she has the constant paranoia of people judging her appearance or finding out about her other identity making her a perfect representation of a person bottling up their feelings and masking their struggles.

She is a mummy's girl. She often idolises her own mother since she adopted her after being rejected by own parents. She often likes to be by her side and she always looks for approval from her. She feels that her mother is the most perfect person ever. She is willing to not get married so she can be by her side. She would properly commit arson on an orphanage if her mother asked her to do it. She has a huge attraction for people who act motherly or fatherly.

When she is in her other identity of Athena Lionheart, she feels more brave and ongoing. Her magic doesn't change her personality, she just feels more confident in her identity of Athena and she shows what her personality could be like if she didn't have a shortage of confidence. She is more likely to confront others, fight to protect others and be in dangerous situations since she feels that Athena can handle it way better compared to Griselle. She is more sociable and ongoing since she doesn't have to worry about messing up since she is disguised as someone else. Her other identity is your typical hero who fights for justice and protects the weak.

But it's not all sunshine and rainbows. She carries a huge burden. She often believes that her being Athena and having her appearance changed is the only way she can be truly happy. Her other identity did earn her fame, respect from others and "love" from the people she saved but they don't represent true happiness. Her other identity Athena had even received a marriage proposal from a general from the Lamora army who simply likes her for being the strong and beautiful warrior she is. She does feel depressed from it since she wonders why she is getting all of this but she isn't happy and she doesn't want them at all.

Likes: She likes her mother, freshly baked pies, her most favourite is strawberry pie, sewing clothes, being her other identity Athena Lionheart and sewing.

DISLIKES: bloody meat, sewing too much to the point her hands hurt, people staring at her, her limits on how much she can be her other identity and the sound of flies buzzing, it annoys her a lot.

Skills (Cooking, Hunting, etc): She knows how to cook since she was taught by her adoptive mother, she does help to cook dinner for her mother and her extended family. She knows how to sew, making clothes and dying clothes with dyes. She can make her own custom dress if she just has enough material if she wants to, resulting in her making truly unique dresses that suit her. She is good at keeping her secret from her other identity.

Fears: People finding out that Athena Lionheart is actually Liesl Lieberstein since she fears that she would be treated badly and treated like a horrible liar. She fears that if that part is discovered by other people, she will never be able to go back to her warrior form and enjoy life.

Abilities and Weaponry

Weapons: She has her staff from her magical warrior form.

Abilities (Include Limits For Abilities)

Abilities: She has the ability to transform into a magical warrior known as Athena Lionheart (essentially a magical girl). With her magical necklace, her unusual appearance changes to a more “acceptable” appearance with bright blond hair, light skin and blue eyes. She also has a special outfit and staff with it as well. She is granted more knowledge on how to use her abilities and fight efficiently with a far range fighting style where she fights enemies from a far distance. She can’t remember or describe this knowledge when she is in her normal form unless she writes it down.

Ability of flight: With her magical abilities come with the perk of flight. She can fly like a superhero. She can fly up to the speed of 18 mph. She can’t fly beyond 30 feet, there will just be an invisible force field preventing her from flying further. Her flying has a limit, she can fly for about ten turns and when she is out of flight turns, she has to wait for five turns before she can fly again

Golden Sun of Justice and kindness: With her staff, she can blast a 20 ft long and 7ft wide light towards her enemies. Depending on how much energy she uses. The light almost resembles fire or the sun which gives enemies burns. The light uses three modes which are a first, second and third degree burn. There is a limit on how much she can blast depending on what mode she wants to use, she has about eighteen turns of energy she can use. The first degree one uses four turns, the second one up to six turns and the third one up to eight turns. When she reaches the limit, she has to wait about seven turns for it to refill up to sixteen. She will feel tired and worn down after using up the turns. The smaller the range of the light (aka...5 ft), the more powerful the burn will be. Depending how long the light will be will have an affect on how powerful the light will be. A light blast over 5 foot will be no more than a 1st degree burn or a first degree burn.

Golden chain of bravery and honesty: She can summon 8 ft chains and a max about four chains each. She can use it to bind others and make sure no one gets away. They are light so they are easy to throw and they can move on to bind others. Her chains are not as strong as they look, they can easily be cut easily with a knife. When they are cut, there is a five turn cooldown and she has to wait for them to regenerate or summon another rope. Each rope can be out for about eight turns.

Golden shield of protection: She can summon two shields that she uses to protect herself and others. They are about the height of 8 ft. They float and they follow her. They are pretty tough and they are almost as tough as metal. Her shields can be out for about ten turns before there is a eight turn cooldown.

Weaknesses:

She is not good against close range styles of fighting with examples of people who use swords, people who need to go up and personal to fight her or any form of fighting that is completely different from her fighting style. She is someone that needs to fight from afar since her magic relies on just snipping enemies from afar.

She is weak against dark magic which includes necromancy, shadows and night magic. Any magic that is under the category of dark magic will have an advantage over her. It makes her weaker and her attacks are less effective when they are against dark magic. Dark magic also can speed up transforming back into her old self.

She can only be in her Athena form for about thirty turns or four hours. She will transform back into her old form with warning signs like a painful heart beat, her form slowly morphing back into her old form and feeling more exhausted. There is a way that people can force her to transform back, destroying the three blue gems which are located on her stomach, neck and staff can transform her back slowly. They are as strong as thick glass and destroying one can weaken her a lot. When one gem is destroyed, her magic is weaker, her flight is cut off and she is weaker. It takes about fifteen turns to regenerate one gem.

Other Information

Relatives: She has an adoptive mother and her extended family that travels with each other on their travelling cloth merchant business. Her adoptive mother is called Charmian Lieberstein.

History (Backstory): “Athena Lionheart, the brave magical warrior who fought and protected for the weak. She had defeated huge monsters, stopped thieves and stood up for others. She seemed to have mysterious origins, no country of origin or even a family. It was like she appeared out of thin air. But Athena Lionheart carried a huge secret...”

Liesl was born into a commoner family known as the Liddel family. Before she was born, her family was extremely poor. They needed some money fast and they wanted to become rich. They went to a mage who could grow plants quickly for them and exchange them to pay back for their service with money they earned. However, as time went on, they couldn't earn enough money through their business through Liesl's father being careless with money and spending it on booze due to his drinking problem.

Despite her mother urging him to remember the debt they were owed, he continued. Soon the mage became impatient and demanded them for the money they were owed. The parents struggled so the mage was extremely furious with them. In the midst of their fury, they used their other magic in their arsenal. They were going to curse the father who they knew was the reason why they were not being paid back. They used a combination of two curses with the common names of “the green curse” which would turn the cursed one green with a good side of dark green spots and the “spotted curse” which would give people dark discoloured patches on their skin. They placed the curse in a small bag and handed it to a bird that would just air drop it on the father. The bag would explode on contact. The bird would fly to her parent’s house and look for the father. However, the bird ended up being pounced on by an eagle and the eagle attacked them, the bag would fall. It plunged to the ground. It would hit her mother who was outside in the garden and was a few months pregnant. The curse would hardly affect the mother, it would be passed down to the baby. The curse would change their hair and skin to light green with dark green spots.

When Liesl was born, she was a huge shock for the family. She came out as a green baby covered in dark green spots. Her mother and father almost fainted with shock when they saw their baby was all green and covered in dark green spots. “What the fuck is that?!?” her mother cursed to herself. “She looks diseased, the village could throw us out since they don’t want to deal with an outbreak.” Her parents ended up keeping her but they tried to paint the child, cover them up and hide her when people would visit their home.

Liesl grew up always feeling unhappy with her appearance. Despite her parent’s best effort to hide her appearance from the world, there were plenty of moments when people saw her true appearance. Those moments were horrible since she ended up being mocked for her appearance, a lot of people whispered to themselves that she looked diseased or a different species all together. Whenever she was near other children, they would end up running away from her, telling her to go away rudely or just ignore her. She felt that she didn’t look human and she wondered why she turned out like this. The only thing she was told by her parents was that “it was that damn mage”. She grew up wishing that she looked normal or even better, her appearance was accepted in her community.

Her parents didn’t seem to care about her much. There was a lot of tension between them from the stress of their daughter’s appearance, their reputation in the village with their daughter and they felt that mage “ruined” their lives. They seemed to not be much in her life, they rarely spent time with her and they ignored most of the time. Their relationship was barely a loving and parental relationship. Liesl was extremely lonely in her life due to her having no friends due to her appearance but her parents couldn’t even make her home a warm and kind place to be. In the end, they ended up abandoning her at the age of ten. She just entered her home and she discovered her home was empty. She waited for them to come home in the evening but they never came. She waited for the next morning but they never came. She waited a few days but they never came.

Liesl cried and cried. She was extremely scared now she was all alone. She didn’t know what to do. She decided to leave her own home to find her parents, she travelled to nearby villages asking any person that didn’t seem disgusted by her appearance where her parents were. One day, she was in a village and she ended up meeting an elf named Charmian Lieberstein when she was working for her travelling business. Charmian was concerned for the poor child. She decided to adopt her into her family. Liesl ended up having her last name changed from Liddel to Liberstein. She loved her adoptive mother since she was extremely kind to her and she accepted her appearance. That's what she wanted, acceptance of her appearance. She grew up in a loving home when she was a teenager and she worked in their business.

Bit by bit, she ended up telling her mother about her appearance and how she seemed to be bullied for it. Charmain promised her that her and her family would never reject her and they would support her to the very end. Liesl ended up becoming very close to her adoptive mother. She often liked to work beside her, spend time with her and she even said to her "I don't care about marriage, I wouldn't mind looking after you when you are older." Her mother was flattered to hear that but she told her that she wouldn't need that and she wanted her to have her own life. Liesl didn't care since she figured that she wouldn't be able to go out to have her own life since she felt her appearance held her back. Even if she was now supported by her family, her hatred for her cursed appearance didn't disappear.

Even in her teen years, she wished there was a way to get rid of her appearance. Her wishes would be somewhat fulfilled at the age of eighteen. She was wandering around the forest and nearby would be a mage creating a magical tool which was a pendant. They were creating a pendant that would contain magical powers. As Liesl walked near their home, the magical pendant would react to her coming closer with a bright blue glow. It would lift up and fly away from an open window. It met up with her. She was awestruck with its beauty and she gently poked it. There would be a sudden azure flash and she felt something strange. Her green spotted green body seemed to disappear, her green hair transformed into beautiful golden locks and she was stripped out of her clothes into a powerful warrior gear.

Liesl was confused. She felt strange. She felt that she was powerful and she looked at her appearance in the nearby stream of their house. She noticed her appearance changed. Her green spotted skin was a normal pale hue, her dark green eyes was now a sky blue and her green hair was now a golden man. Her outfit was different, she was donning a warrior like outfit and she was even holding a staff. She didn't know how to react to it. Her mind was still processing the changes. The mage was astonished that it worked on Liesl. They didn't even have an answer for why it happened. After Liesl and the mage spoke for a while, they had a pact: Liesl may keep the pendant but in exchange for that, she must use the powers for good, protect the weak and help others. If she broke the pact, the mage would track her down and destroy the pendant. As long as she was wearing the necklace, they could see her move through a crystal ball. She agreed instantly on it since she realised that she had a chance to change her appearance.

Liesl fulfilled her promise. She was able to since she felt that she was filled with more confidence and bravery in her warrior form. She used her powers for good. She defeated monsters that would threaten any village, fought against people who picked on the weak and she generally helped everyone. Her good deeds did not go unnoticed. Soon she went from zero to hero. She gave herself a new name to suit this new warrior persona. She became known as "Athena Lionheart" since she didn't want people to find out her true identity. She started doing her good deeds when she was temporarily in Asteria and she continued to do them in other countries in Pandora. She was started to be seen as a magical warrior who fought for the good and protected the weak. Since she was starting to become one of the many legendary heroes in the nations of Pandora, she received fame, wealth and people idolised her.

At first, she felt extremely joyful that she was receiving all of this. Her family was proud of her and they happily kept her secret. Her mother was the proudest. But deep down, she wondered if this was truly the way for her to be happy. She even asked her “Are you really interested in being this warrior known as Athena Lionheart and helping others or are you doing this just because you want to hide your cursed appearance?” She got no response from her. Liesl didn’t want to think about her old appearance. She wanted to be her other identity if she could. Her bullying of her childhood and her parents' rejection took a toll on her. She was willing to hide away her true self and appearance just so she could look more “acceptable” to some people. She was slowly releasing that all of things like fame, wealth and idolisation was not what she wanted. But she didn’t know if there were any other paths to be happy. She was willing to continue to fake herself and be Athena Lionheart if that is what it takes to accept herself.