

Important Document Regarding Stuff™

This Terms of Service is subject to change as I continue to grow, and should be read in full prior to placing commissions, requests, or entering raffles of any kind.

General Details & Rules

- Non-commissioned stories written by me are not to be posted anywhere by anyone other than myself, regardless of intention. If you wish to have a story or series posted on a certain website, message me and I will let you know.
- Any commissions can be submitted to any website the commissioner see's fit, so long as they credit me as the writer (link optional)
- I reserve the right to decline any commission, for whatever reason. This will most often be due to certain kinks I dislike writing about, which can be seen at the bottom of this document.
 - If you have a history of poor behavior (prior failed payments, content theft, etc.) with prior commissions or are generally rude to others, you will most likely be declined.
- Although I will try to finish a story on time, the estimated times for completion are not concrete depending on a stories length or complexity, and any commissioner or raffle winner is free to PM me to remind me of their commission, as I can be forgetful and slow.
- All prices are subject to change.

Raffles

- Raffles will be made during my available free time between normal stories or commissions
- Story length does not matter for raffle stories, it can range from 2,000 words all the way to 7,000+, but will be limited to the plot the winner wants, especially if it is more generic than specific, which leaves the story length at my discretion

- Winners are permitted to request a deeper involvement with the story creation, such as helping create plot points or perhaps writing scenes entirely should they choose (I will still curate most of these scenes to ensure they uphold a certain level of quality and flow.)
- All raffles follow the rules of regular commissions, which can be viewed below.

Commissions

- Commissioners must pay in full within 24 hours of requesting a commission. Any user who fails to pay will lose their slot, and repeated failures may result in denial upon request.
- A reference sheet is required for any original character with specific features that are important to the story.
- Any commissioned work I make will generally be uploaded by myself, with credit to each character's owner. However, the commissioner can opt to remain anonymous. This does not exclude you from posting my story without proper credit.
- Total word counts are not concrete. If you commissioned for a 2000 word story and the final product comes to around 2300, you will not be charged for the commission tier above.
- There will be no refunds. If you are unhappy with the final result of your commission, I would be happy to discuss this through PM's and edit the story until you feel comfortable with the result.
- Commission payments are to be made through Paypal, in US currency only.

Forbidden Kinks & Themes

These kinks or themes are ones I am not comfortable writing about, most of which cannot be discussed as they don't fit the theme of my writing.
