

SL: How consistently posting goes a long way.

Hi Jonathan,

I would like to start off first by saying real quickly that in your niche, you have some of the most high quality rosaries and crucifixes out of all the other talented companies who do the same thing as you do.

So, I can see you are getting a lot of attention, out of everyone I have looked at in this particular niche, you're the only person I have heard good things about through word of mouth, from Matt Fradd specifically if I'm not mistaken.

This tells me that you are getting the job done. And I wanted to say that from looking at your social media, I think you will benefit even more if you were to start campaigning and/or post on your social media every day.

And I see that you have the attention, but more frequency as well as better quality copy in wording in the posting brings more followers, and a higher conversion rate.

I have all the time in the world and the skills necessary to give you this huge boost. I will dedicate myself to helping you succeed in the marketing sphere.

Sincerely,

Michael