Sometimes you just can't get away from nature. There's no shortage of wild animals that seem to prefer an urban lifestyle. That's when The Critter Team comes in handy. Getting out into nature every once in awhile is a good idea, but living with a skunk, opossum, woodpecker or rat is going a little too far. Wild animals can inflict costly damage to your home and property. Pests can also jeopardize the health of you and your family.

Give The Critter Team a call the moment you realize that an uninvited guest has moved into your home, barn, shed, garage or yard. Only a qualified wildlife control specialist is prepared to remove wild animals in a way that is both safe and humane. The Critter Team uses humane trapping techniques and equipment to quickly remove wildlife and pests, dead or alive, from your home or property.

Wildlife Control and Animal Capture Services

We can perform damage repairs, discover the source of noises in your attic or walls, respond to wild animal emergencies, eliminate nasty odors and remove dead animals. The Critter Team also provides gopher control, mole removal and attic decontamination services. When it comes to assisting homeowners and businesses with wildlife issues, no one does it better than The Critter Team.

company is prepared to accept. The Critter Team provides wild animal removal services in the greater Houston Texas area. We specialize in the removal of all nuisance species from residential and commercial locations, including birds, snakes, skunks, rats, armadillos, raccoons, squirrels and more. Controlling birds is a challenge that generally requires a combination of building alterations and habitat modification services. Call The Critter team today at 281-667-0171 to receive a bird control consultation. Birds are hard to control, but we have a few tricks up our Critter Team sleeves.

Bird Nesting

Bird Exclusion Services in Houston TX

The Critter Team bird control program begins with a careful inspection of the premises. Our professionally trained wildlife control specialists will inspect all potential entry points and roosting sites. The principle underlying effective bird control is fairly simple. The goal is to make the environment surrounding a home or business undesirable to the birds, especially the entry points and roosting sites that attract particular Houston bird species. The critter team has seen it all before. We will employ strategies that have proven to be effective in the past, but our wildlife management experts are always coming up with new services and products to control nuisance birds and other wildlife species.

Controlling wild bird populations can become rather complicated. Just when you think you've solved the problem, the birds figure out a new way to reach their destination. They just aren't willing to give up on a good roosting site. There's no need to despair. The Critter Team is just as stubborn as those nuisance bird populations.

Most wild bird control programs focus on habitat modification. Common examples of effective habitat alterations include installing screen to eliminate potential entry points, sealing exposed ventilation pipes and installing bird spikes to eliminate roosting sites. Birds are attracted to the corners of buildings, I-beam ledges and similar architectural features. You'd think that birds would prefer the nearby park, but that's not the way that birds think. No, they would rather roost and poop on your residential or commercial property. No one ever said that life was easy.

Nuisance Birds in Houston

The common pigeon, or feral pigeon, is famous for roosting on building ledges, window sills, roof overhangs, signs, beams and other architectural attractions. They can also be found living in attics, HVAC equipment and other unexpected locations. Pigeons are enchanting birds, but they deposit copious amounts of fecal matter, nesting materials, feathers, fleas and mites wherever they roost. The mess is unsightly and unsanitary. The droppings are also acidic, effectively wearing away stone and metal building materials. Bird poop can also lead to the development of various fungal diseases. With all the trees in the world, you'd think that woodpeckers would leave the wood siding and trim on your home, business or industrial facility alone. Unfortunately, your building is just another source of food to a woodpecker. Like other animals, woodpeckers are territorial. They have no intention of sharing your building with other pests, so they return day after day to peck holes in your woodwork.

Canada Geese often assemble in large flocks and take over business locations, parks, golf courses and even residential yards. Not only do they deposit tremendous amounts of fecal matter, they will destroy your manicured lawns and landscaping.

HOW can you get rid of woodpeckers, geese and other nuisance birds? Trapping and relocating nuisance birds isn't likely to permanently solve the problem. The birds will probably book a return flight to their preferred nesting area in no time at all. That's why The Critter Team implements creative strategies to deal effectively with nuisance birds. Even if you used lethal means to eliminate the birds, another flock of birds would soon be attracted to your desirable habitat. It's all about the habitat. Birds in buildings are another matter altogether. Once the birds are removed, it's just a matter of sealing the building.
