Misc. Transfer fees from the Chesterfield FC minute books.

Includes donations that were made to clubs as gifts, rather than part of any deal – such donations were often made if a player was signed without a fee changing hands and were often made long after the player joined CFC. In some cases, fees were paid to or received from FL clubs (who held FL registrations) although the player concerned was not actually a contract player with that FL club. Fisher sale, for example, and possibly Cookson purchase. I've included deals involving first-team players only (with one or two later interesting exceptions).

Many of those fees received in the summer of ’39 may have remained unpaid, since an FA rule allowed clubs to default or re-schedule outstanding instalments. We were paying Birmingham & Spurs for players signed in 1939 as late as 1944-5, and I’m not sure that Millwall paid anything like the full amount for McMillen.
