[Author Name¹]*, [Author Name²], [Author Name³]

^{1, 2, 3,} [Affiliation, Country, Email Address]

Abstract

Provide a concise summary of the research, highlighting the main objectives, methods, results, and conclusions. The abstract should be between 150-250 words.

Keywords: List 4-6 keywords that represent the main topics of the manuscript.

Introduction

Introduce the research topic, its significance, and the research questions or hypotheses. Provide a brief overview of the structure of the paper.

Literature Review

Summarize the relevant literature, identifying gaps that the current research aims to address. This section should provide context and justify the research.

Methodology

Describe the research design, participants, data collection methods, and analysis procedures. Ensure sufficient detail for replication of the study.

Results

Present the findings of the study clearly and concisely. Use tables and figures to support and illustrate the results. Ensure each table and figure is referenced in the text and includes a descriptive title.

Discussion

Interpret the results in the context of the research questions and existing literature. Discuss the implications, limitations, and potential areas for future research.

Conclusion

Summarize the main findings and their significance. Highlight the contributions of the study to the field of language and education.

Acknowledgments

Acknowledge any funding sources, institutional support, or individuals who contributed to the research but are not listed as authors.

References

List all references cited in the text in APA (7th edition) format. Ensure all citations in the text are included in the reference list and vice versa.

Appendices

Include any supplementary material, such as questionnaires or detailed descriptions of the experimental setup, if necessary.

Formatting Guidelines

Font: Footlight MT, 12-point

Spacing: Single-spaced throughout, including references

Margins: 1-inch margins on all sides

Page Numbers: Number all pages consecutively

Headings: Use clear and consistent heading levels

Abstract

This study investigates the impact of [research topic]. The main objectives are to [objectives]. Using [methods], we found that [results]. These findings suggest [conclusions].

Keywords: Language acquisition, educational methodologies, cultural studies, linguistic theory

Introduction

The introduction should provide an overview of the research problem, its significance, and the specific research questions or hypotheses addressed in the study. For example, "This study aims to explore the relationship between language acquisition and cultural immersion in primary education settings."

Literature Review

In the literature review, summarize key studies related to your research topic. Identify gaps or inconsistencies in the existing research that your study aims to address. For example, "Previous research has shown a positive correlation between cultural immersion and language proficiency (Smith, 2020), but few studies have examined this relationship in primary education contexts."

Methodology

Provide a detailed description of your research design, participants, and methods of data collection and analysis. For example, "The study employed a mixed-methods approach, involving both qualitative interviews and quantitative surveys. Participants included 100 primary school students from diverse cultural backgrounds."

Results

Present your findings using text, tables, and figures. Ensure that each table and figure is clearly labeled and referenced in the text. For example, "Table 1 shows the demographic characteristics of the participants. The results indicate that students who participated in cultural immersion programs scored significantly higher on language proficiency tests (see Figure 1)."

Discussion

Interpret your results in the context of the research questions and existing literature. Discuss the implications of your findings and any limitations of your study. For example,

"These findings support the hypothesis that cultural immersion enhances language acquisition. However, the study's limitations include a small sample size and the potential for self-report bias."

Conclusion

Summarize the main findings of your study and their implications for the field of language and education. For example, "This study contributes to the understanding of how cultural immersion programs can be used to improve language proficiency in primary education. Future research should explore the long-term effects of such programs."

Acknowledgments

Acknowledge any funding sources or individuals who contributed to your research. For example, "This research was supported by a grant from the [Funding Agency]. The authors would like to thank [Name] for their assistance with data collection."
