Hello,

My account (@_____) has been suspended, and I strongly believe this action is the result of a misclassification. My activity was entirely related to fandom participation—engaging with trending hashtags and topics for a currently airing series.

These activities appear to have been incorrectly flagged as bot or spam behavior, possibly due to mass reporting or automated detection errors. I want to clearly state that my engagement was fully organic, with no use of automation, scripts, or spam tactics.

Suspending genuine users for normal fan participation raises serious concerns about how fandom activity is being categorized and moderated on the platform.

I request a careful and fair review of my account and its context. I am willing to comply with all guidelines, but I also ask that legitimate engagement is not penalized due to system errors or false reports.

I look forward to your response and the restoration of my account.

Thank you.
