

Lives Matter!!

Forlorn and an estranged soul,
Shattered like trustless glass.
Lost in the mystifying woods,
In the quest of empathetic trees.
Abandoned by the world,
who painted everlasting prejudice
on the canvas of her mind.
Sought solace under the virginal white glimmer.

Mirage of thoughts owed her an eternal rest.
Thought of herself as an empty space,
Absolutely barren, denuded of hues.
But over the catastrophic night;
Ascertained to be colourless,
Than see a world, torn over colours.
Scattered under the same sky,
Drained pieces;
Of good and bad,
Quashing melancholy,
Came together to form a captivating montage.

Among all the injustice;
an essence of art,
Brought all the colors together
Not tearing them apart.
Embrace your perfections,
Laugh off your flaws,
For it is not the white shade,
But the scars defining the moon.

Betwixt shades of black, white and brown..
Look out for the rainbow.