of isolation and homesickness, making it hard to adjust to a foreign environment. Additionally, language barriers may pose another obstacle, especially for students from Laos, where English is not widely spoken in daily life. However, by maintaining patience, staying open-minded, and gradually immersing myself in the new culture, I believe I can overcome these challenges. Over time, I will not only adapt but also grow to appreciate and embrace the unique traditions and lifestyle of the host country.

Overall, this opportunity is more than academic it's a chance to grow as a global citizen and bring transformative ideas to Laos. I am ready to face the challenges and turn them into stepping stones for my future.
