

Season 5, Chapter 35 –

#TBT: Tundra Bomb Tuesday

Oh wait; we have a dash of insanity every Monday. What with all the action we've been having lately, I'd forgotten what Mondays truly feel like! I do not like how they feel.

Anyway, today was Tuesday and the world had frozen over. Quite literally, in fact. Everything was covered in ice; the grass, the roof... even the ice itself. Remember when the ice was frozen by itself earlier this Season? Yeah, well, the world started tearing in half again just like what happened back then. Even the inside of the house was covered in ice, making it look all futuristic and chrome. In reality, everything was just really slippery. According to Sarah who supplied the idea for this chapter, the world had frozen over because Zack Hakton and RAINBOWMAN got into a fight and the latter turned the world to ice so it would be, quote, "just like [Zack Hakton's] cold, dead, unforgiving heart". Yikes. Trust issues, party of two.

Today I woke up, took a deep breath, and was ready to start the day. Normally I'm not all enthusiastic, but today felt like it was going to be COOL. Ha. Wait, why are you booing?! The moment I stepped out of bed, I started sliding. I slid into the hallway where I tripped on a Zrock, fell on my face, and continued sliding. It was just that slippery. I slid past Dennis, who had somehow managed to get his [REDACTED] stuck in the ice. Since it was in the ice, I'm guessing he was doing something naughty when the world froze over. It was probably just bad timing.

"... 'tis but a... scratch...!"

I slid down the stairs on my face, hitting every jagged bump on the way. I slid into the living room where FlamDawg and Amber were attempting to sit on the frozen couch without sliding off of it.

“Ugh! Why is this so SLIPPERY?!”

“Everything froze over! Even your forehead!”

“Um... my forehead is just fine, thank you.”

“But it’s so shiny.”

“That’s how it always is! It’s because I sparkle and shine.”

He stopped trying to steady himself and stared at her.

“...you got a gigantic forehead.”

“What?!”

“That ain’t no forehead. You got a fivehead!”

“UGH!!!”

She slid off of the couch and fell on the floor as Zack Hakton’s face appeared on her forehead. There was more than enough room. I slid over to the two of them before jumping back to my feet.

“That’s it, I’m tired of sliding. It’s time for a meeting!”

LATER, everyone was gathered in the kitchen, seated around the kitchen table and trying their best not to slide out of their chairs. Zack Hakton did not have this issue because, y’know, floating. I, of course, was leading the meeting but was struggling to stand on the frozen floor.

“Okay, so! As you might have noticed, the world has completely frozen over and everything is now encased in ice... including our house.”

I stopped and took a deep breath.

“WHY?!”

Zack Hakton, who was now suddenly wearing a rainbow crop top, booty shorts, and large hoop earrings, twinkled his fingers.

“Oh! I can answer that! See, RAINBOWMAN and I got into a fight and he froze the world while calling me hurtful names. But don’t worry... we can overcome this! As Joshua and I always say: It’s not about how frozen the world is, it’s about whether or not those shoes match that top.”

Everyone just stared at him. I had a horribly confused expression.

“WHAT DOES THAT HAVE TO DO WITH ANYTHING?!”

The force of my screeching caused his fruity clothes to blow off, returning him to his normal unglamorous state.

So then! I’m not sure what Zack Hakton is doing. Sarah just really enjoys making him extra fruity in her ideas! I would appreciate it if we didn’t taint the novel with such filth.

It turned out that the frozen world was affecting everyone in different ways. We all had some struggles going on! Amber was mad.

“I’m, like... so cold!”

Her frozen fivehead cracked from the cold. Zack Hakton, who was now face-down on the floor, seemed upset.

“I can’t float anymore!”

Kotaro was downright FURIOUS.

“My waffos are starting to freeze!!”

The camera turned to Alex, who looked around a few times.

“Um... I’m not cold. I feel just fine.”

Everyone whipped around and glared at him.

“...what?”

Sarah slapped him so hard that he became a vampire! Kotaro threw a waffle at his chair, causing him to fall backwards onto the floor. He slid and landed right in the light shining in from the window. He immediately caught on fire and exploded and, well... that was the end of Alex.

“Did he sparkle when he exploded?”

“Now! Onto more pressing matters! The world is FROZEN! Like, for real!”

“For real for real?”

“For real for real for real.”

Sindr spit out her tea.

“That’s too for real!!!”

Amber spilled her beans again!

“AMBER!”

They immediately froze and got stuck to the ice. Zack Hakton, who was already on the floor, slid over and attempted to lick them up but his tongue got stuck to the ice. Sarah slid out of her chair and got up.

“I think I have the perfect solution to return the world back to normal!”

LATER, we were all standing around in the backyard where everything was encased in ice. FlamDawg was Zuctaped to a large rocket while Sarah was doing some final tweaks. I had been quiet up until this point but finally decided to ask.

“Sarah, how is this supposed to-“

She raised a hand.

“No, no. I know what I’m doing. Just watch.”

She grabbed the remote and hit the launch button. The engine started and the rocket blasted off into the stratosphere, taking FlamDawg with it. He was screaming the whole way.

“How is this going to help my relationship with my motherrrrrrrr...?!”

And he was gone. I turned to Sarah, who smiled nervously.

“Um... I might have told him that this project would help mend his relationship with his mother.”

I glared at her as the rocket hit the sun- the only thing that was not encased in ice. FlamDawg’s fire element plus the rocket explosion AND the sun combined to create a massive blast that swept over the planet, thawing the ice and freeing us from a frozen world! We all danced around in victory, but it became apparent that the heat wave was not going away. The planet’s temperature continued to rise until things started bursting into flames... including us! We ran around screaming as Gloria burst in. She was also on fire and her craziness seemed to spread the fire even further.

We cut to a shot of me sitting in a leather recliner in front of a fireplace in a cozy room. I closed the book in my lap entitled, "Hashtag Tales" and smiled at you, the dear listeners of my latest story.

"And that was the day global warming came into effect. Goodnight, everyone!"

Okay then! Wait... did Sarah just cause global warming?! That's not exactly a good thing, though I suppose it's better than living in a world that's completely frozen over!