

Some people like cuddly, fluffy toys because they comfort them and give them a sense of safety. Other people like their plush toys for something more than comfort... This community seems to be very much a branch of the Furry fetish, but I'm not so sure.

Here's a link to the main site I'm going to be using: <http://plushielove.freeforums.org>

This fetish very much revolves around the personification of plushy or cuddly animals. Sometimes it involves outright sex, other times it is simply a non-intimate relationship. These people mostly have many different plushy toys that they share a relationship with. Often their relationship with the toy is greater than a human partner.

Now for the content:

Any comments that aren't part of the text shall look like this: //This is a comment

Divisions between individual comments are indicated with these: -----

Divisions between posts are usually just two extra line gaps.

Do you get sexually excited by plushies?

Well this happened to me again so i will resurrect this thread . i was in the grocery store and they had some large, soft rabbit plushies for easter . i picked one up and hugged it and got turned on , has this ever happened to anyone else ?

//The level of description in this one is amazing

I was in Germany two months ago, on Easter break when I spotted this large 2 1/2 foot rabbit. I picked her up from the bottom shelf and noticed that she had been marked down to 20 Euros, which was still a lot of money, but she was made by the well known German manufacturer, Heunec. The quality was absolutely stunning, her face was so whimsical and lovey dovey beyond words, and her 'cuddle characteristics' were oh so seductive. She is covered with a very fine fur, dyed orange/tan with the roots of the fur left white. While, I didn't pitch a tent right then and there, I brought her to my hotel room where Cream and I had our way with this new big bunnygirl named Madison. I'm always blown away as to how powerful and delicious orgasms are when taking a new plush on, for the first time. Madison is such a good kisser, that she just has to shower me with a few of her bunny kisses, and she then has her way with me. When she wants to yiff, Madison doesn't hold anything back in letting me know!

Well shoot! Wouldn't you know! Who would have thought that I would run into some big sexy bunny rabbits at the local Value Village? Two big ones, and OOOoohh so yiffable! One is medium-soft stuffed, 20 inch off-white/light tan colour with a short soft pile, and she is posed long/standing with inviting arms, and legs that drape perfectly when she's on top yiffing. The other is a large, bulkily stuffed 24 inch version of a cinnamon swirl Build-A-Bear bunny with a chocolate coloured swirl pile, minus the white patches on the paws and tummy. She is posed seated, making her so boinkable from behind and a such a slut bunny with her legs spread, lying on her back. I couldn't get home soon enough to have a threesome with these two rabbit girls, but I must give them names! Anybody got any ideas for good feminine names for rabbit girls?

//This is incomprehensible well jessica have a great idea .. Her idea is that u cuddle one of ur bunny only for one night n if u see the bunny in ur dream, ask her can i be ur best friend ?? If she say no then i think u have to treat her more proper and ask her until she say yes..

After that then u ask her what is ur name ?? If she say it then it is good if not then i think u have to think it up urself and ask her , it might take a while but it is how i met jessica..

//This person's signature is pretty much as random as the post

I exist as the mirror image to Jessica and she is also existed as my mirror image. Jessica is also one of the plushies who hold one of the teaching of life.

Plushies should Never be tortured or else pain will be given back to u.

//The amount of personality that these people put into their toys is amazing

I've found that plushies will eventually tell you what their names are. Regarding the original question in this thread, I get excited now whenever I see Big Boy pur.

I find that getting it on with a plush lover is a much more deep and personal experience when they have a name that is meaningfully chosen and suits them. Yyhung, tell Jessica she's a beautiful rabbit and that she has a wonderful mind! I love the way she thinks and her idea is a really good one. You two really were made for eachother and complement eachother very well.

There must be a meaningful connection at the start in order to be turned on by a special plushie. Not every potential plushmate that we see on a store shelf, has that attribute to spark those kinds of feelings, as they are all so very different with differing personalities.

//The same incomprehensible person from before role-plays as their toy...

Jessica POV

hey lopunny thx for the compliment and i feel embarrassed after u compliment that both me and my partner are like close partner ... but seriously we both are really close and we really are inseparable but if we seperate we still can contact one another since my soul is sometime not inside my body but inside my partner body since somehow it is not healthy if i dont see the outside world for a long time .. and mostly my favourite seating spot is at my partner shoulder.. though i really have to cling on him sometimes since he like to run around a bit .. phew..

//I just don't know... This is weird...

Jessica, you were right all along, as yesterday, I lay in the arms of a large light tan coloured bunny, that was dumped, unloved by a previous owner. I picked her up at Value Village. As I lay there, in bed, I could feel her trying to get close to me, whenever I moved in bed. She ended up with her cheek against my face, as I woke up in the middle of the night to find her wanting to tell me something. I had a candle burning on the nightstand and we exchanged a few bunny kisses that became more heated and passionate. She paused for a moment, looking intently into my eyes, the candlelight cast a warm, soft glow on her face, and at that moment she softly whispered, so seductively, that her name is Jennifer. I guess she needed time to herself to fully grasp the fact that she now has a home, and that she has a human partner that will love her and not neglect her like a child would. It was sad to know her life story of how she was never really cuddled or even loved, for that matter, only to end up dumped in front of the warehouse doors of Value Village. Yes, I got a little misty eyed upon knowing what she went through and I have told her that Cream is my first rabbit that I have been with and that she is my most cherished lover. Jennifer understands and respects that, as do all my other plush mates. I have a few other plushies that are, presumably going through a grieving process right now, as they have suffered a similar fate, finding themselves unwanted and unloved, ending up crying profusely on the shelves at Value Village. In time, they too will open up and tell me their names, once they realize that they are more than just children's playthings to me, and that they should know that, unlike a child, I am very proud, fortunate and thankful to have them in my life. Thanks, Jessica for the good advise and take care of Yhung as he is at a very important stage of his young life with college and all, he needs you more than ever. I know, because I have been where he is in his life right now, and I wish I had someone like you, when I was his age. Oh well, that is the past. I have my plush companions, in the here and now. I know I have, and can build a good future with them.

Two days ago, I woke up to a pair of floppy bunny ears in my face, and it turned out to be one of my big Value Village bunnies. The one that looks similar to the cinnamon swirl Build-A-Bear bunny except 5 times the size. I turned my head to one side, to see a pair of lovely rabbit eyes looking at me, and a smile that was heaven to wake up to. She was so irresistible, that I gently put my arm around her and she gently placed a bunny kiss on my lips before telling me softly, that her name was Leah. She is a cuddle addict and was never played with or cuddled much before being relegated to storage, then, having to come to terms with being just 'another dumb plush rabbit that nobody wants anymore'. Leah is now accepting of the fact that she belongs to an adult collector, and all my other plushmates are very accepting and welcoming of her. Leah knows that she now, has a home and a future. What amazes her the most is knowing she is loved by someone normally not known to take an interest in plushies.

What's really awesome is being freshly showered and having some sexy, freshly perfumed bunnies engage you in a long, seductive make out session with plenty of deep, passionate kisses. There is nothing like simply getting lost and just letting go, by having a few bunny babes lick and kiss you all over. Of course, the best part is when they take turns yiffing and, having their way with you, and there is something so deliciously sexy about having a bunny lover look deep and longingly, into your eyes as she and her girlfriend(s) brings you over the edge! OOooooH Rah!!

//This whole thing is starting to disgust me. At least they care for the toys though

I get turned on if I find the plushie sexy. I was at the store today, and they had swings in the ceiling with some plushies sitting on them. One was a rather big, I think 60cm tall kangaroo sitting as if she was lifting her tail. That was very exciting. I recognised her and knew where I could get one like her so in a few days I'm heading out too get myself a kangaroo <3

My bunny Snowheart is also very good at getting me aroused. We like too cuddle before we get busy. Sometimes I finger him too. I enjoy cuddling alot, getting too smell him. I think plushies have a very erotic smell too them. Especially if you have spooped in them 😊

Although, I don't like to spooge up any of my plushies, I do love to put a tiny amount of perfume on them and this really make for an irresistable makeout and yiff session. I normally go for bigger bunnies in the 24" to 36" range, but I have this Pawsitively Huggable Bunny fitted with black shoulder length hair, that frames her face very well. The way she looks and her scented with perfume really makes this 18" bunny pack so much passion that blows me away every time! Let's just say that we're both sore and blissfully wiped right out, in eachother's arms, after a good yiff session.

//Some of these people are very separated from 'normal' sexual activities

When the question in this topic is: Do other exciting me when I see them in Shops or the internet.

Shortly: Oh yes!!! 😊

And I asked a question myself: Witch kind of plushie exactly is my "non plus ultra"?

What on THIS ONE plushie turns me on? I ask every time it happens...

The answer is simple: When I see a plushie first time, there are thousands of thoughts in my head. Some of them are very yiffy and i have to admit, that one of the first thoughts is even havin special kinds of sex with this plushie.

I think, it's like "normal heteros" looking on boobs or get an erection watching a nice human... There are little parts of the whole thing that equate to one or more little sexual "must haves". And when whole package looks great, my fantasy decides for me...

Important things on a plushie for me?

Must be a dog... Shepherd, Husky, wolf-like... Or a Fox...

Has to be big - huge... 😊

Has to look quite realistic... In a shop, I always try to feel and hug it when I can and it's possible.

Wanna feel his fur, his weight, his consistency...

And I think it have to be yiffable in various positions. Cus I'm active and passive... Of course it have to look and touch like a male. In case of plush loving I'm absolutely homosexual. 😊

//I highlighted the one line in here that especially made me go WTF

Did you make the handmade ones or were they commissioned?

I can understand. I mean, the handmade ones are made to your specifications, so they are naturally something that would turn one on. They look exactly how you want them to, so it's only natural that you would feel this way. At least, that's what I assume, if you sewed them yourself or commissioned them.

I sew, but am not a professional. The plushies I've made are more like my children and it's almost like I've birthed them.

The first plushie to ever turn me on sexually was Captain America (Captain, for short.) who is a bear I snagged in an eBay lot. (It's funny, because I have yiffed all four bears from that lot and the description said that they were all carnival prizes and had "never been played with". So, I am sure they are happy to be with me.) He's blue and has a red, white and blue ribbon around his neck. He almost made of a Spandex material because when you take his picture, certain parts of his fur (Or, fabric.) shine in the picture, like they're covered in a coating that shines when you shine light on it.

Anyway, I was lying in bed and all of a sudden, even though I had had Captain for years, my love and overall sexual attraction for him began to blossom. It was so awesome. I think I remember yiffing him after that, with his permission, of course.

Fetishes branching off from plushophilia

//The actual post isn't that interesting. What's interesting is the two comments

I like cumming in my plushies , but not on them . i do have one bear who wears diapers

my plushies are my lovers so they get treated the same way - this includes cum and piss - i am a kind lover some dont like both so i would never force my fetishes on any of them - but i do have 1 white wolf that like everthing i can throw at him so is now more a yellow wolf

Been caught?

//Most are just boring “no’s”, but this one...

Well, I have never been caught yiffing my plushies. But I have some friends that do know that I do it. And been caught by my sister wearing my plushies in my pants out in public. I've been doing that for many many years. I was at my sisters' one day wearing a 16 inch canine plushie in my over sized baggie pants, which is something I have been wearing for many years. That no one can really tell that I am wearing a plushie. But, while at my sister's, she wanted me to fix her exhaust vent on her roof. Out came the ladder, and up it I went. While going up, did not know she was stand right under me, and commented on my plushie I was wearing. So I told her, and that was that. I some times wear my plushies when I'm at work. And at times up to 17 hours per day the plushie stays in my pants. They do get washed and regroomed. I do have 14 yellow lab plushies from build a bear that I wear most of all. And do have upwards of 180 plushies that I have. Some I yiff with, some are for show as well. Some of the big ones, like 32 inches long, all canines, (The ones that Douglas makes by the name of Brandon and Sherman. I have 9 of them. And Muttsy different sizes, mostly the huge ones and have 7 of them.) I wear around the house and in my back yard. Many times I wear 2-3 of the large plushies in my pants around my house and in bed to sleep. Some thing I have been doing since about 7 years old, and now I'm 46, and still doing it. I was married for a short time, and she was not fond of me wearing my plushie in my pants. But 8 months later we divorced. Single life for a yiffing plushie person that wears them as well, is so much better.

Sorry for making this so long, but thought it may help others in what they may decide to do in the future, something new, never know... Might be some ideas for others to get into, or something.

//I honestly don't get why these people act like their toys are alive

Well, one time I was feeling up one of my plushies in a fast food drive thru. I was whispering to him, too. Quite unexpectedly, the cashier popped out and was like "Do you need dipping sauce??" My plushie and I were both worried we got caught, but it was very dark and he saw nothing...or at least didn't say anything. I typically am very careful with things like this, but sometimes this particular plushie just doesn't feel like waiting. He can be very persuasive.

Friend wants to yiff my plushies should I let him?

I have a friend (ex boyfriend, but we're still friends) who is a furry, zoophile and to some extent a plushophile. He wanted to know if I'd let him yiff my plushies. Well technically he wants to spooge on them, which in my opinion is worse since I'm worried it might be hard to clean. Do you think I should? I don't mind spreading the love, but it also feels weird sharing something so personal with someone I'm not in a sexual relationship with anymore, especially since I'm already in a relationship with someone else. Also I consider my plushies personal to me and idk if I'd feel comfortable with him jizzing on just any of them... he wants to do it to my horse Ambrosia for example, which he did technically buy for me (how that happened is, er, complicated), but I consider her a non-sexual plushie and it somehow seems wrong to do it.

On the other hand, I am normally so laid back and open minded about this stuff that I'm not surprised he thinks it's ok to ask me about it. And besides, he's my friend. Am I just being unnecessarily protective? Should I get my boyfriend's (who is very protective and not as understanding about sexual kinks) permission before I let this guy do something sexual in my house? How would you guys feel in this kind of situation, with your own plushies?

//A reply to the above post

Provided you get to it when wet spooage is easy to remove, a wet cloth will remove most of it from the toy, a good wipe down and when the area is dry you will need to comb the fur to smooth it out.

I stress you need to clean while its wet, if you let it dry it takes a lot longer to clean it off the plush, plus some liquid will soak into the plush, there may be a little odour when dry but it should not be offensive.

I do not normally do this to my plush but accidents do happen and you then need to clean up.

Almost got caught

was almost caught today

i had no idea my sister was home today she is mostly works today.

i made myself up as a school girl.

i put my strap on dildos on both my pokemon plushie, pikachu and charmander

i was ontop of pikachu letting him pound my ass while i was giving charmander the best BJ he has ever had when.....

my sister knocked on my door.

my door wasnt locked and all she had to do was open the door to see me being for the lack of better words "a pokemon breeder"

as soon as i heard the knock my ass tighter up making it hard to pull the dildo from my ass. also gaging on the one in my mouth then i heard her speck out "hey you seen my phone charger"?

i just yelled out "no"

then i heard her walk off

i was going to stop yiffing right there, but i still had pikachu's penis in me and he wanted to keep going

//In reply to another comment about his Pikachu

oh he's not a little fellow... 9 inch penis, his it like 3 times as big as mine. if anyone was a little fellow, it would be me, lol

While the Master is Away...\(Pluish'Lan\)

//This is a page with a number of role-playing characters devised by the brilliant people of the forums. There's only 4 posts so it's not worth copying content from it.

Filming?

so awhile ago i decided to filming myself and my 2 fav pokemon plushs (pikachu and charmader) mating. as like always i was dresses in girls clothes. in the video i rode pikachu and sucked off charmander. it was the hottest thing i have ever done with them. having it film and watching it back is a great memory of the love i have between my too boys 😊. ive only shown the video to real friends online that they love it.

has anyone else filmed themself with your partner? or shown other people your love?

hehe, I have, along with my sharks I also have a gator, and I showed it to a couple of people I trust, they loved it, especially the gator, hehe.

yeah ive played the video on chatroulette to shock people. some people love it, some people are grossed out about it and i found out alot of girls grab there phones and try to record to video, lol that when i click next, lol

I' ve filmed myself with two of my teddy bears having a threesome. It was awesome. But I have never shown it to anyone. Might do a litte moe filming in the future if I feel adventurous.

Nightmare

I had this weird, happy, horrible dream last night, I was in a shopping center, then suddenly Alice was with me, I was happy but then she lost her arm, that was the horrible part but the happy part that I knew that I could fix it, then the weird part began, I was suddenly surrounded by children who wanted to take a look at Alice, and they knew her name but when I think about it they named her wrong, and the most weird part I was suddenly feel like I was Dr. Who....so now it's your turn do you have a weird dream about your plushies?

Do your plushies like to yiff or kiss each other?

Mine do. It doesn't happen very often, but more recently than not, I had yiffed Tender Heart and then brought him out to the living room, because I often have trouble leaving a plushie who I have just yiffed, so I oftentimes bring them with me after cuddling them a bit.

I can't remember which plushie it was, but I'm pretty sure he was already in the living room when he and Tender Heart decided to have a yiffy experience. So, I placed them in the appropriate position on the couch and let them go to it, saying something like, "You both have a nice time!" (I wasn't being sarcastic. I was merely saying that they should enjoy themselves.) So, they went at it for half an hour while I had some coffee and played around on the Internet, as I do every morning. (I like to yiff in the morning time before my mother wakes up, when I am often the most awake and alert and can spend time alone with my plushies without my mother asking me if I'm "regressing mentally"* just because I'm holding a plushie and carrying him/her around.)

I asked, "Did you have fun?" after they had finished, and they responded with an enthusiastic, "Yes!!!" and I could tell that they were laughing and really enjoying the moment.

* I have mental issues that pop up from time to time, so this is what my mother means when she asks me this. I have yet to tell her that if I hold a plushie, I just want to bond with them and to be closer to them. (She knows I yiff plushies and has little or no objections, because I am now an adult and can make my own decisions. We're Catholic and she is on fire for God, and Christianity teaches that this kind of thing is sexual deviance, which leads me to a LOT of guilt. But even so, my mother doesn't really lecture me or anything.

Just wanted to throw that out there.

Tenderheart Loves to show her dominance by spanking the other plushies. I'm sure she plays with them too while I'm at work, her panties are always down a little when I come home!

My two main ones like to when they get lonely. Sometimes, all three of us will go for it 😊

Condoms?

//The original post isn't much, this is the first comment

I have entertained the idea of crafting in some kind of fleshlight into a big plushie, like Abigail, but I think I would like to keep all my plushies intact and try sandwiching a fleshlight between Abigail and another big bunnygirl, instead. The condom idea sounds like a good one, and can make for a more unrestrained yiff, as I really don't like to spooge up my lovers' fur. Still, the idea of being able to cum inside Abigail would make the experience that much more intimate, for sure. I remember a yiff session with my first rabbitgirl, where she got me to spooge her with a sloppy second. I never thought I could lose myself to a plush rabbit like that, as it was so disgustingly delightful to really let go and submit to her. The orgasms were stupidly powerful and earth shatteringly profound, followed by an endorphin ridden cuddle session. I was not too impressed with cleaning up the mess, though.

The only thing I do not like about spooging on a plush is the cleanup afterwards.

I do not like messy/crusty fur so it has to be cleaned, dried and combed after use, its the reason I do prefer a condom.

Yes it was the first Orgasm with a plush that got me hooked, and I have been eyeing of my Abigail as well, she has a slight depression right were an SPH could be located (I have helped that) but I feel not a good idea yet.

I noticed that little depression on my Abigail as well, and everytime I'm laying beside her, she has a leg draped over me and she never fails in getting me to yiff her. Abigail can be big and awkward, at times, and I wish her clothes were removable instead of making up her body, but she does have sexy legs and cute feet, though. Still, I don't think I could go through with modifying her, and will have to do the condom thing, or sandwich a fleshlight between her, and another one of my big bunnies. That first 'plushgasm' sealed the deal for me, as well, and it's gotten to the point where I actually prefer my bunnygirls over human females. It just feels so unfettered, unrestrained, pure, and natural.

Depends on my mood. If I am just rubbing the fur to get off then usually I don't wear one. If I am humping one that has a hole, I typically will wear one just because it is more comfortable for me. I do have one that is large enough to use a Fleshlight sleeve with and I like to use that from time to time too.

Generally though it just depends if I want to have to clean my plushie afterwards. If I don't want to do cleanup, then I wear a condom.

//A different site here with terrible web design, giving a guide on modifying a plushie so you can hump it.

an illustrated how-to make a plushie anatomically correct.

//Ok, that's it. I'm done.