I have read and will abide by the definitions, principles and rules for overnight travel. I have reviewed these with my student/parent. I understand that if I break the rules or I know that rules were broken, I have a responsibility to report it to a chaperone or the trip leader.

I understand that breaking any part of this contract could result in

- A student being assigned as a “permanent buddy” to a chaperone.
- A student being dismissed from the trip (student/parent responsible for expenses)
- A student requiring their parent to chaperone any trip the student attends.
- A student not being allowed to travel.
- Other consequences as determined by the choral director, school and/or the school district

Overnight Travel Contract

Each student traveling with the group must submit this signed document before they may travel. Most problems can be avoided by observing general principles and rules.

General Travel Principles

1) Students stay (generally) four to a room with two beds.
2) Adult chaperones attend the trip. Each student room is assigned an adult chaperone.
3) Students are never to be alone during a trip. Students should travel in groups and be careful that all in the group are safe.
4) Care is given to stay in hotels that are safe, have a free hot breakfast, and can accomodate the needs of our group. Hotel contact information is given on the Travel Itinerary.
5) At any time, a parent can call or text the trip leader for information about itinerary details and/or questions or concerns about students. Contact information will be given on the Travel Itinerary
6) Students will be given verbal instructions regarding the itinerary periodically during the trip. Each student is responsible to listen carefully, plan and follow the instructions given.
7) Students should avoid "Public Displays of Affection" (PDA) during a trip (regardless of the personal relationships the students have outside of class). During the trip, each student is expected to conduct themselves with dignity and respect. This includes, and is not limited to, back-rubs, hand-holding, cuddling, etc. This applies while on the bus, during the activity and at the hotel (all times during the trip).
8) On occasion students are asked if they have a preference of one person they would choose to room with and one person they would choose not to room with. Not all students will be assigned according to their requests. Students will be assigned to rooms that provide the safest and most responsible opportunities.
9) There is not a "travel fund" set up at the school for Choral and Vocal Music. Each trip is assessed a Trip Fee to cover transportation, lodging, occasional meals and any group activities. Generally students cover their meal expenses or bring food with them during the trip.

Hotel Rules

1) No students are allowed to be in any other student rooms, for any reason, unless the student has been cleared, in person, with their assigned chaperone or the trip leader.
2) No students may be out of their rooms for any reason after "in-room" time, unless the student has made clear contact with their assigned chaperone.
3) Students must observe the "lights-out" time in their room.
4) Hotel quiet times are to be strictly observed.
5) If hotel rules or travel principles are broken, students have a responsibility to inform a chaperone or travel leader as quickly as possible.
6) Any consequences imposed for breaking rules will apply to those who break rules as well as students who were aware of the breaking of rules and did not talk to a chaperone about it.

Definitions

In-Room Time This is the time that students must be in their respective rooms (for the evening). Every student assigned to the room must be in the room. At some point between the "in-room" time and "lights out," the assigned chaperone(s) will make a room check. In-room time applies through the night until normal breakfast times in the morning.

Room Check The assigned chaperone(s) will personally check each room at the "in-room" time. Chaperones are instructed that they may 1) talk at the door to a student representing the room, 2) ask to see each person in the room or 3) walk into the room and physically account for each person. Instructions may be given at this time about the activities in the morning.

Lights Out At the "lights-out" time, lights should be turned off, phone alerts should be silenced, and each person should allow others in the room to sleep. Regardless of the "room decision" to stay up longer, this is now quiet time students should be going to sleep.
