How to make 2.3k/month with... Chickens?

If you are looking for passive income in 2023

During the pandemic I heard from one of my good friends that he had taken to raising chickens to keep busy!

My immediate thought was, "Why would you want to take care of those smelly birds?"

His answer shocked me.

His chickens were making him over $2,000 per month in egg sales!

While I had been sitting at home wasting time, he had started a business.

I'll admit, I felt like I had been left behind,

And my pessimistic brain just had to know,

"What is the worst part about doing this"

Again, his answer shocked me.

It wasn't anything to do with the birds themselves, or even the business side.

"The worst part is the chickens getting poached by raccoons and foxes."

THATS IT??

One of the easiest problems to fix was his biggest worry.

So, if you are looking for a bit of extra cash every month,

Raising chickens is a fantastic way to achieve that.

It only requires a few hours per week,

And, it can help teach your family a lot about responsibility, and animal care.

Now, as for that pesky predator problem.

After extensive research, I have found the perfect solution, one that will keep your poultry safe from any sneaky creatures with ill intent.

Your chickens aren't safe

If you own backyard chickens, you need to hear this!

Raising chickens is a great investment in several ways.

Of course, you will always have unlimited free eggs,

And you can even sell the leftovers for some extra cash!

However, since the backyard chickens trend has become so popular recently,

Many families are rushing in, not doing proper research, and losing their feathered friends to wily predators.

They are left feeling guilty and heartbroken, wishing they had used a better strategy.

If you want your chickens to live a happy life, and provide you with lovely meals for a long time to come,

You first need to keep them safe.
