3 things to take with us into the future	1 thing to let go	Any other outcome
Move away from school exam situations and move more towards real life scenario assessments.	Stick to analogue formats, not adapt teaching formats to digital scenarios.	It is very important to increase digital skills in general.
Home-based exams will become standard.	Stick to school exam situations.	Generally speaking we might move to more formative assessment during the semester instead of summative assessment at the end of the semester.
More exchange of knowhow and communication between different organisations, set up a community to easily and	Too many summative assessments at the end of the semester instead of formative	Digitalisation requires development of new (formative) assessment scenarios.

efficiently share important insights that are relevant to tackle challenges of digitalisation.	assessments during the semester.
