Ph.D. in Law and Politics,

Minor in Laws that govern church and state
HBI University
Course Duration: 3 years
Credit Hours: 105

Program Description

The Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) in Law and Politics at HBIU University is designed to equip students with the analytical, research, and leadership skills necessary to navigate the complex intersections of legal frameworks and political structures. This program provides an in-depth exploration of the ways in which law shapes political institutions, governance, public policy, and international relations. By integrating both theoretical perspectives and applied research, students will develop a sophisticated understanding of legal doctrines, political ideologies, constitutional law, and global governance, preparing them for impactful careers in academia, law, policy analysis, and public administration.

The Minor in Laws that Govern Church and State specialization offers a focused study of the legal principles that regulate the relationship between religious institutions and government entities. This specialization delves into topics such as religious freedom, constitutional protections, legal restrictions on religious practices, and the impact of political decisions on faith-based organizations. Given the ongoing debates surrounding the separation of church and state, students in this minor will gain a nuanced understanding of the legal and ethical considerations that shape religious governance, policy-making, and human rights advocacy..
