

1,001 Plays

Interested in script writing/playwriting? 1,001 Plays invites budding Mason Korea playwrights to participate in this year's 1,001 Plays 10-minute play festival. This year student playwrights will write on the theme of HOME.

About 1,001 Plays

Sponsored by George Mason University's School of Theater, 1,001 Plays connects playwrights and audiences from worlds apart.

1,001 Plays is an annual 10-minute play festival presented by Global Partners worldwide — the first international new play exchange of its kind. Students write, perform, direct and dramaturg original works for the stage, exploring multiple perspectives on a single idea. These short student works are performed live online and followed by a talkback, allowing both students and audiences the opportunity to share, reflect, and respond.

Info Session

Interested in participating but not sure where to start? Come and learn about how to get involved by attending the 1,001 Plays Info Session:

- Event: 1,001 Plays Info Session
- Date: Mon. Sep. 25
- Time: 12:00–1:00 pm
- Venue: G401

Submission Dates and Requirements

- Registration: Register your interest in participating in 1,001 Plays by submitting your Student Playwright Entry Form by Nov. 1.

Submit your completed Student Playwright Form to plays@gmu.edu.

Contact Alice Wigglesworth, Mason Korea 1,001 Plays Faculty Mentor, to be your faculty sponsor: awriggle@gmu.edu

- Submission: Submit your completed Playwright Agreement Form and your play, scene, or monologue by Dec. 1.
- Requirements:

Plays: < 10 minutes

Scenes: < 5 minutes

Monologues: < 2 minutes

Submissions should be written in English and be inspired by this year's theme of HOME.

For more information, visit <https://theater.gmu.edu/1001-plays>.