

Video Production: “Stories in Minutes” Documentary Name:

TGJ4M1

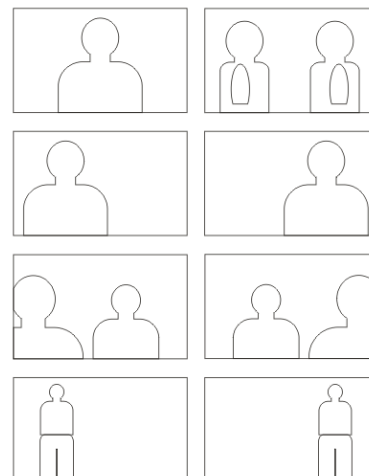

Objective

Students will work individually to develop a brief factual 90 second to 3 minute documentary that tells a real story of personal accomplishment of a real person. It must contain an interview with this person (or other, as negotiated with the teacher) as well as supporting video and still imagery. Carefully selected audio will noticeably enhance the video presentation. The final product should be creatively arranged and hold the audience's attention. Appropriate camera shots and typography is expected. Appropriate editing is necessary to ensure a quality, interesting and informative final product.

Steps

1. Carefully select the individual who you wish to interview; present them with your proposed questions (sample questions are on the other side of this page) and arrange the interview time.
2. Prepare for your interview. Ensure you have appropriate recording technology. Prepare your treatment. Carefully plan your video sequence. Consider the camera shots and how you would like to frame your subject in the interview. Write your scripts and design the introduction and conclusion. Consider creating a time management tool and / or storyboarding to plan the production and post-production editing phases.
3. Research your subject and collect imagery that could be used as part of the visual overlays and background audio elements.
4. Production: Record and acquire your footage. Consider the location of your interview: ambient environmental audio, background objects, etc. Determine the most appropriate camera settings and consistently used them to guarantee continuity.
5. Post Production: Download your footage, still images and audio and edit using your planning as a structured guide.
6. Export the final product using the most appropriate settings.
7. Submit the video to the location identified by the teacher.
8. Submit your printed elements.
