Soul Fire Farm Safe and Functional Space Agreements

Our goal is for Soul Fire Farm to be a supportive, nonviolent, and inclusive space for all who participate. Everyone in the Soul Fire community is expected to engage other humans, species, and the land with respect. We will interrupt oppressive behavior, defined as any conduct that demeans, marginalizes, rejects, threatens or harms anyone on the basis of ability, age, cultural background, education, ethnicity, gender, immigration status, language, nationality, physical appearance, race, religion, or sexual orientation as well as any conduct that damages the dwelling spaces or the Earth.

SAFE SPACE

1. NONVIOLENCE: We do not use violence - no physical or verbal threats, bullying, slander, "dragging" (internet-based shaming or disparagement), harassment, assault, insults, teasing, slurs, relational aggression, property destruction, talking negatively about people, or intimidation. We are aware of both intent and impact, listening and changing our behavior when we learn that it is causing harm.
2. ACCOUNTABILITY: We do not "call people out" or otherwise dismiss, shame, or shun them. When someone behaves in a way that seems to be out of alignment with these safe space agreements, we ask a facilitator to support and witness us as we offer compassionate feedback. Facilitators can also offer this feedback on our behalf.
3. IDENTITY: We do not assume or judge anyone's gender identity, sexual preference, survivor status, class, ethnicity, documentation status, ability, or other identities. We use the names and pronouns that community members ask us to use. We are aware of our privileged identities and make space for those with targeted identities to speak, lead, and take space. We do not use ableist, transphobic, food shaming or other oppressive language.
4. CONSENT: We respect one another's physical and emotional boundaries. We ask before touching, observing, recording, or photographing others. We ask before bringing up topics that are personal, sensitive, or potentially triggering.
5. PRESENCE: We show up to sessions on time, fully present, and ready to give and receive. We practice care, patience, and gentleness with ourselves. We take breaks when we need them and communicate clearly about our needs.
6. LISTENING: We listen actively to one another, and are respectful of different opinions, experiences, and learning styles. We do not "evangelize" our beliefs or pressure others to agree with us. Rather, we practice both/and thinking. We center the voices of people impacted by particular oppressions as experts in those areas. We embrace "ragged" imperfect thoughts and ask questions rather than making assumptions.
7. SHARING: We actively share our knowledge and skills with our community. We recognize that no one knows everything and together we know a lot. We practice self-focus language by using "I statements" and not assuming our perspective is universal truth. We expect and accept non-closure. We maintain confidentiality - "what's said here stays here, what's learned here leaves here." We speak from the heart.

Safer Space FAQs

What is the role of white people at Soul Fire Farm?

Soul Fire Farm is a multiracial organization that currently has majority BIPOC leadership at all levels of the organization. The people who work on the farm identify as Black, Latine, Indigenous, SWANA, Sefardic, Asian, white, and other ethnicities. Many of our programs are specifically designed to be culturally relevant and safe space for folks of Black, Indigenous, Asian, and/or Latinx heritage and have designated times that are BIPOC only. Other programs and spaces are integrated. The European-heritage people at SFF are trained in anti-racism and how to be mindful of their privilege and space-taking, which is an ongoing learning process. We believe that uprooting white supremacy requires collaborative work across ethnic groups and we are grateful for everyone in our Soul Fire family for their commitment to that work.

Is Grafton, NY a safe town for people of color to visit?

The land in Grafton NY belongs to the Mohican people, most of whom were forcibly removed to Wisconsin in the 1830's. The rural landscape in upstate New York was maintained as predominantly white through the "sundown town" local regulations that condoned the murder of black and brown people in these towns after sunset. Our people have always resisted and maintained our presence in rural upstate NY - including Harriet Tubman and the Timbucto community. Still 95% of rural farmland is in the hands of white people today (2012 national ag census.) We believe that it is important for people of color to reclaim our right to belong to the rural land. We chose Grafton, NY in part because Grafton Lakes State Park and the Grafton Peace Pagoda are well established spaces that many people of color frequent. Also, we spent years building relationships of mutual respect with our neighbors (mostly conservative, working class, white folks) before starting up our programs. We do recommend using a buddy system when leaving the property and also recommend against "trespassing" as it could lead to confrontation or harm.

Who do I talk to if I have a question or concern about the safety of the space?

During most events, there is a designated person in charge of safety, who will be present and visible to support participants. You are also welcome to approach anyone who works at the farm, if you are comfortable doing so. Soul Fire Farm is governed by a collective of 11 beautiful, brilliant, committed people who are majority people of color and majority women/femmes. This Board of Directors is ultimately responsible for the organization and what happens here at the farm. You can reach them at board@soulfirefarm.org. If you would like to request that Soul Fire Farm uphold agreements that arise from a community accountability/transformational justice process, please put this request in writing so that the collective can review and respond with clarity.
