Stickley's Legacy With Your Style: Timeless Beds with Custom Finishes

Date: March 2025

Imagine a bed that is not just furniture, but a masterpiece. A masterpiece that carries true craftsmanship and beauty of Stickley's legacy. For over a century, Stickley has created heirloom quality beds and furniture where each one is not only built to last but designed to be passed down, treasured, and loved for generations. That legacy meets your personal vision when you choose your custom finish, shaping a piece that is truly and undeniably yours. At Ennis Fine Furniture, serving Boise, ID; Spokane, WA; and the greater northwest, this is more than a dream—it is an invitation. Come by and bring your vision to life.

A Tradition of Stickley Craftsmanship

Stickley bedroom furniture brings artistry and craftsmanship to your home. Solid wood bed frames made from American white oak and American black cherry make the custom furniture durable enough to last for generations. The handcrafted finish on each piece transforms your space into a retreat of comfort while keeping it sophisticated and elegant.

To own a Stickley piece is to own a piece of history—a work of art that carries the spirit of masterful woodworking, a devotion to quality, and a commitment to tradition. For over a century, Stickley has remained a symbol of impeccable craftsmanship, where every bed, every joint, and every hand-applied finish is a testament to time-honored techniques and excellence.

Unlike mass-produced furniture where speed often takes precedence over quality, Stickley remains steadfast in the meticulous techniques that have defined fine furniture for generations. Each piece is built using first-rate joinery and products.

The Hallmarks of Stickley Beds

- Handcrafted Solid Wood Construction: They are crafted from premium hardwoods, including American black cherry and white oak, as previously mentioned. These woods are purposefully selected because of their strength and natural beauty.
- Time-Honored Joinery for Lasting Strength: Stickley beds are constructed using techniques like mortise-and-tenon and dovetail joinery. These are techniques dating back centuries that create an unshakeable bond between wooden components. They also eliminate the need for excess hardware, allowing the natural beauty of the wood to shine through while enhancing structural integrity.
- Designs to Suit Every Style: With a range of collections and styles, you can truly find the piece that suits your space and your personality perfectly. Stickley offers beds with sleek silhouettes, upholstered headboards, and sophisticated finishes, proving that fine craftsmanship and contemporary design coexist beautifully.
 - Mission Collection: This collection features clean lines, quarter-sawn oak, and hand-rubbed finishes, embodying Stickley's historic aesthetic.
 - Park Slope Collection: With a blend of traditional and contemporary elements, these beds offer refined curves, intricate slats, and a rich, handcrafted presence.
 - Highlands Collection: Inspired by the beauty in nature, these beds incorporate graceful arches, sculpted details, and warm wood tones for a romantic, yet enduring, look.

- Custom Finishes for a Personalized Touch: Each Stickley bed is available in a variety of hand-applied stains and finishes, allowing you to tailor your piece to your desired style. Because they are hand-rubbed, your customized bed will have a depth of color and texture that mass-produced furniture simply cannot replicate.
- Functionality and Versatility: Many Stickley beds incorporate hidden storage, offering under-bed drawers with much-loved practicality. They are also built for superior mattress support.

A Legacy of Heirloom Quality Furniture

Stickley's custom furniture is not merely built—it is crafted with the intention of lasting generations. Each bed is constructed with the same integrity, passion, and precision that Gustav Stickley pioneered in the early 1900s.

True Stickley craftsmanship honors their tradition of staying deeply committed to sustainability. When you choose Stickley, you are choosing furniture crafted with care, respect, and an understanding that fine wood is a gift to be treasured, not wasted. It is also intended for long-lasting use instead of careless disposability.

A Stickley bed is of course a well-loved and needed piece of furniture, but it is also a statement of elegance, craftsmanship, and legacy. It is a piece that invites you to rest, dream, and wake up in a space that is beautiful and timeless. With the ability to choose your finish, you are not just purchasing a bed; you are creating a bespoke heirloom that comes with your desired style and the unmatched artistry of Stickley's master woodworkers.

At Ennis Fine Furniture, we invite you to experience the luxury of Stickley craftsmanship firsthand. Let us help you find the perfect Stickley bed that transforms your bedroom into a retreat of warmth, beauty, strength, and time-honored elegance. You design it just the way you want it and we'll have it built right here in America. How to Shop Furniture Sales Like a Designer

Your Guide to Finding Timeless Pieces at Once-in-a-Lifetime Prices

There's a certain thrill to discovering the perfect piece of furniture—especially when it's priced far below its original value. But how do interior designers and seasoned shoppers manage to walk into a furniture liquidation sale and walk out with pieces that look like they were custom-made for their space?

At Ennis Fine Furniture, we have worked hand in hand with designers and homeowners across the Northwest for generations. With decades of experience curating fine furnishings in Boise, Spokane, and beyond, we've seen how trained eyes approach a sale with vision, confidence, and a touch of creative courage.

Here are a few expert-backed tips to help you shop a furniture liquidation event like a pro—and create a space that looks anything but clearance.

1. Have a Vision—but Stay Flexible

Designers rarely shop with a rigid checklist. Instead, they have a poetic vision— a mood, a palette, an atmosphere. Perhaps your heart is set on a soft velvet chair to anchor a reading nook or a streamlined walnut buffet that will accent the quiet grandeur of your dining room. But within the magic of a liquidation event, you may stumble upon something unexpected that fits your dream even better than the original plan.

At liquidation sales, inventory is one-of-a-kind and constantly changing. If you arrive knowing your color palette, layout, and how each piece will function in your home, you'll be able to spot pieces that elevate your vision—even if they're not what you expected to find.

2. Measure Before You Go

One of the biggest mistakes buyers make is falling in love with a piece that won't fit. Designers always come armed with measurements—not just of the room but of doorways, hallways, and stairwells. They will often use painter's tape to mark off your room measurements and sketch out a footprint on the showroom floor. By coming prepared, you will feel empowered to say "Yes!" when the right piece presents itself. And when time is of the essence—clearance treasures don't last long—you don't hesitate.

Bonus Tip: Bring photos of your home's interiors, swatches of paint or fabric, and measurements of existing pieces. It is like having your home feeding you the answers while you shop.

3. Mix Eras, Materials, and Moods

Professional designers know that "matchy-matchy" rooms often feel flat. The secret? Contrast and texture. Imagine this: gleaming metals against rich wood; sleek modern next to aged charm; cool marble contrasting warm textiles.

Use the liquidation event to find standout pieces that add richness and balance to your existing decor. Pair a contemporary leather sectional with a vintage-inspired Stickley credenza. Mixing styles creates a layered, designer-quality look. Let opposites attract, and your room will buzz with personality.

4. Look Beyond the Showroom Finish

Just because a dresser is shown in a coastal blue finish doesn't mean it can't live beautifully in a mountain-style home. Designers are masters at reimagining pieces in new settings.

If the modern lines, premium materials, and superb quality are there, you can make almost anything fit in your styled home with the wonderful customization options available at Ennis. With the savings from a liquidation event, you might even treat yourself to a custom upholstery refresh or hardware swap. Many of our clients choose to refresh their treasures with the money they saved to make it their own in every way.

5. Act with Intention, Not Impulse

There is urgency in a clearance sale. After all, when it's gone, it's truly gone. But don't let excitement rush you into a misfit. Designers move swiftly, yes—but always with measured consideration. If something aligns with your aesthetic, fits your space, and sparks delight, trust your gut and say “yes!”

But if you're hesitating because it doesn't feel right, it probably isn't. Even with an enticing price tag, a mismatch will cost you more in long-term regret than you saved in dollars.

6. Know Where to Shop

An expertly curated clearance event is rare, but designers always know what is coming and available in the furniture world. Ennis Fine Furniture's upcoming Spokane Inventory Liquidation Event is just such an occasion.

Beginning Saturday, April 12, discover over 10,000 square feet of luxury furnishings at breathtaking discounts—up to 80% off. Expect handcrafted pieces from celebrated names like Stickley, Canadel, Bernhardt, and more, all offered at prices you may never see again.

7. Bring the Right Companion

While solo shopping can be easy, bringing a trusted eye, whether it's a friend with good taste or one of Ennis's in-house designers, can offer clarity and confidence. Our Spokane designers offer free consultations, and some may even accompany you to help envision how each piece will live in your space.

We believe furniture is not simply utilitarian—it's the backdrop for your life. Every gathering, every quiet moment, and every season is enriched by the beauty that surrounds you. So let someone help you choose wisely and well.

Whether you're furnishing a new home or upgrading a single room, liquidation events are full of potential—and with a designer's mindset, you'll walk away with more than savings. You'll walk away with a timeless style that lasts. Be sure to attend Ennis Fine Furniture's off-site liquidation sale in Spokane, WA, starting on April 12. You won't want to miss this once-in-a-lifetime opportunity.

The Finishing Touch: How Accents Complete the Feel of Your Room Design

Date: May 2025

A room without its finishing touches and accents is like a symphony that is missing the final page of the piece. Furniture in a room lays the foundation and begins to set the scene, but it is the thoughtful addition of ambient lighting, plush rugs, artful mirrors, and curated artwork that gives a room its voice and personality.

At Ennis Fine Furniture, we serve the Boise, ID, and Spokane, WA, areas and the greater Northwest. We believe these elements are more than accessories; they are storytellers of your style. Though these accents may seem like afterthoughts, they are actually the missing pieces that turn your room design into a work of art.

Illuminate with Grace – The Poetry of Lamps

Bright or dim, bold or subtle, lighting changes everything about the room in an instant. Soft pools of light can create a sense of warmth and intimacy in a room. With a floor lamp in the corner for drama or a chandelier hung from the ceiling for elegance, what mood are you aiming for?

Lamps offer both function and form. From sculptural table lamps to stately floor lamps, each piece serves as a marriage of form and function. Designers often turn to lamps to soften harsh overhead lighting and introduce layers of warmth into a space. The right lamp does more than brighten: it enhances textures, highlights art and architecture, and draws attention to the moments and memories unfolding in a room. Our designers offer these tips for placing lamps in your space:

- Mix lamp heights for visual interest.
Combine floor lamps, table lamps, and accent lighting to create layers of light throughout the room.
- Consider scale and proportion.
A petite lamp may disappear on a large console, while an oversized lamp can overwhelm a small side table. Balance is key.
- Choose shades that soften and direct light.
Fabric shades diffuse light for a warm glow, while glass or metal shades create focused, dramatic illumination.
- Coordinate finishes without being too matchy.
Lamps should complement other finishes in the room (like metals or woods), but don't need to be identical—variety adds interest.
- Use lamps to highlight focal points.
A well-placed lamp can draw attention to artwork, a reading nook, or architectural features.
- Incorporate dimmers or smart bulbs for flexibility.
Adjustable lighting allows you to change the mood, whether hosting guests or settling in for a quiet evening.
- Think about lamp placement for lifestyle, not just aesthetics.
Lamps beside seating areas, beds, or workspaces should provide practical, easy-to-access light where it's needed most.

Ground the Room – The Luxury of Hand-Knotted Rugs

Furniture sets the scene, but rugs complete the picture. Without them, a space can feel unfinished, as though something is missing. Rugs do more than cover the floor. They define areas, add warmth and texture, and bring color and pattern into a room in a way that feels organic and effortless.

Ennis Fine Furniture offers hand-knotted rugs that blend beauty with heritage. These pieces are crafted by skilled artisans. The result is a rug that isn't just decorative, but an investment that will last for years and become part of your home's story.

Choosing the right rug can make all the difference. Not only does it anchor your furniture, but it also brings a sense of cohesion and comfort to the room. Whether you're seeking subtle neutral tones or bold, intricate designs, our curated selection from renowned makers like Surya and Karastan ensures you'll find the perfect piece. Here are some reasons why rugs matter in every room:

- Anchor and Define Spaces:
Rugs help visually pull together furniture and create distinct zones, especially in open floor plans.
- Add Comfort and Texture:
Soft underfoot, they bring a cozy and inviting feeling to everyday living.
- Enhance Style and Color:
From muted tones to statement-making patterns, rugs add depth and personality.
- Improve Acoustics:
They help reduce noise, making rooms feel more peaceful and comfortable.
- Offer Long-Term Durability:
Hand-knotted craftsmanship ensures your rug will age beautifully and stand up to daily life.

Our in-house design team can help guide you through options based on your space, lifestyle, and design preferences. Whether your style is classic, modern, or somewhere in between, a well-chosen rug from Ennis Fine Furniture will bring balance, comfort, and quiet sophistication to your home.

Reflect Beauty—The Elegance of Mirrors

Mirrors do far more than reflect our appearance; they reflect light, create dimension, and bring energy and life to a space. In many ways, a well-placed mirror is the quiet hero of interior design, effortlessly pulling together the elements of a thoughtfully composed room.

We believe mirrors should do more than simply "fill a wall." Instead, they should serve as elegant accents that elevate the entire room. Whether it's a stately framed mirror above a fireplace, a dramatic full-length piece leaning gracefully against a wall, or a set of smaller mirrors grouped artfully together, these versatile decor accents work in both practical and artistic ways.

Mirrors can solve many design challenges and enhance your home's appeal in ways you may not expect:

- Create the Illusion of Space:
Especially in smaller or darker rooms, mirrors help open up the space by reflecting light and making rooms feel larger and brighter.
- Add Natural Light:
Positioned thoughtfully near windows or lamps, mirrors bounce light around the room, brightening even the dimmest corners.
- Introduce Visual Interest:
With endless shapes, finishes, and frames, mirrors can be a work of art in themselves, adding texture, metallic sheen, or softness to a wall.
- Balance and Symmetry:
Placed opposite furniture or artwork, mirrors can help create symmetry and harmony in a room's design.

Design Tips from Our Interior Experts

When selecting and placing mirrors, a few thoughtful considerations make all the difference.

- Scale and Placement:
Choose mirror sizes that are proportional to the wall and the furniture nearby. Oversized mirrors make bold statements; smaller mirrors create subtle charm.
- Frame Style:
Consider the frame's material and color: wood for warmth, metal for modernity, or distressed finishes for rustic charm.
- Layered Styling:
Mirrors pair beautifully with art, lighting, and furniture. Try leaning a large mirror behind a console table or layering it with smaller decorative items.
- Highlight Focal Points:
Reflect something beautiful, like a chandelier, a fireplace, or a scenic view. What your mirror reflects should help define where it hangs.

Complete the Story of Your Home

While furniture sets the stage, it's the finishing touches—soft lighting, luxurious rugs, and elegant mirrors—that bring a room to life. These elements create warmth, reflect personality, and make every space feel more complete.

At Ennis Fine Furniture, we believe in designing homes that are as personal as they are beautiful. Whether you're refreshing a single space or curating an entire home, our expert designers are here to help. These aren't throwaway seasonal buys. They are legacy pieces built to weather the elements and remain beautiful for seasons to come, much like the Northwest landscapes that inspire them.

And while there will always be another summer, the memories of this one are being written now.

Elevated Living With Lexington, Canadel, & Stickley

The Sophistication and Comfort of Luxury Furniture

Date: July 2025

In the heart of every home is the living room—a space that tells your story without saying a word. It's where friends gather, families connect, and quiet moments are savored. At Ennis Fine Furniture, we believe your living room should be as comfortable as it is sophisticated. This is where Lexington living room furniture shines.

Known for its impeccable craftsmanship, refined finishes, and a design language that blends contemporary ease with timeless character, Lexington is a brand that doesn't just furnish a room—it elevates it. And now, with exclusive, limited-time sale savings on our Lexington, Canadel, and Stickley selections—with Lexington at the forefront—you can curate your perfect sanctuary. From the lush hills of Spokane to the vibrant neighborhoods of Boise, Ennis is your Northwest destination for all things Lexington, Canadel, Stickley, and more.

What Sets Lexington Living Room Furniture Apart?

Lexington is a name synonymous with luxury living. But its true appeal lies in how effortlessly it balances everyday comfort with designer-level aesthetics. Every piece—whether a plush sofa, a sculptural accent chair, or a refined cocktail table—is designed to make a visual impact while offering real-world usability.

With Lexington, you'll find collections that draw from a wide range of influences—coastal serenity, urban loft chic, casual modern, and classic transitional. The diversity of the brand's design language allows you to personalize your space while maintaining a cohesive and elevated look.

At Ennis Fine Furniture, we don't believe in cookie-cutter living rooms. That's why we love working with Lexington's collections. They give our designers the creative flexibility to match your lifestyle and vision with furniture that's both practical and inspiring.

The Materials: Designed to Last

Lexington's commitment to quality starts with its materials. Solid hardwood frames form the backbone of most upholstered pieces, ensuring long-term durability and structural integrity. Cushions are often made with a combination of high-resiliency foam and down blend for support that feels plush without losing shape over time.

Then there are the finishes—rich wood tones, hand-applied stains, and brushed metals that provide texture and depth. These finishes don't just add beauty; they stand up to daily life, which means your furniture retains its character for years to come.

Coffee tables and end tables feature careful joinery and striking silhouettes that draw the eye without overpowering the room. Lexington's use of mixed materials—wood, metal, glass, and stone—adds a layer of visual interest that makes each piece feel curated and collected.

Style Meets Serenity

At the heart of most living rooms are the seating arrangements, and Lexington's sofas and sectionals offer options as stylish as they are inviting.

You'll find everything from sleek, modern silhouettes with low profiles and clean lines to deeper, more traditional seating with overstuffed cushions and tailored piping. Modular sectionals can be configured to fit your space exactly, while classic three-seat sofas come with custom upholstery options that allow you to choose everything from fabric texture and color to cushion fill and skirt style.

Looking for a standout accent? Lexington's occasional chairs combine sculptural form with ergonomic comfort. Whether it's a barrel-back swivel chair or a leather club chair with nailhead detailing, these pieces invite you to sit, stay, and enjoy the room you've created.

And remember: even our Lexington upholstered items at Ennis can be fully customizable. Select from hundreds of fabric and leather options, or work with one of our in-house designers to coordinate a palette that flows seamlessly through your living space.
