3 techniques

1- optimize for the best use of business numbers to flex on customers, hours vs minutes, all users vs premium users , visits vs sign ups , etc..

Example : how we got +5000 positive feedbacks on our products vs how we got +1500 positive feedbacks on this particular product

2- right below the fascination or headline clear a common objection for your business, example if people ask if your service works for them or not , make a line below the fascination that says (works for anyone) or (yes, anyone can use it) etc

3-give good context when showing brand logos , example : our best clients

18. The car that never becomes old
19. Buy in minutes and use for +11 YEARS, the new rolls royce
20. The best price to value car today, the most luxurious car today.

Strategies

1-"At 60 mph the loudest noise comes from the electric clock" , It's all about comparison, everything looks better when you compare it to something worse , in this case the crazy mf took it to the sky by comparing the sound of an engine to a clock .

2- "bored to an accuracy of 1/4000th of an inch, which is normal at rolls royce" flexed with something then said "normal" which puts an idea of perfectionism standards in the mind of the reader.

3- "every engine is run on 8 full hours on a test bed before it's placed in a car - 30 minutes idling, 30 minutes at normal revolution and 7 hours at full throttle" , he made a comparison again but this time by starting with weak ass stuff that puts a low standard in the mind of the reader then immediately goes to something as crazy as 7 hours at full throttle, considering that the ad is for an old ass 1958 car.

Tools

1- optimize the copy for the time event if sent in, as an example if the copy will be sent on a holiday optimize the copy for holiday and spending time with family, trips , free time and this kind of bullshit

2-when making an apology (as a business) the Right thing to do is admitting that you screwed up, and that you have standards that you broke so you're apologizing and showing that you take your standards , values and work ethic seriously, also explain a comprehensive plan and how you will fix it.

3- repeating the same idea many times in different ways is a great way to convince the reader, it's like attacking from multiple directions.

Analyzing the sales page: <https://copybloggeracademy.com/>

Tools

1-" Who Is The Copyblogger Academy For?

Members are professionals who are serious about growing their online authority and scaling their business. We do this by attracting high paying clients through quality content marketing. "

The writer here shows who the target market is by firstly saying good compliments the avatar would like about himself like "professionals" and "attracting high paying clients" so he delivers the idea that this academy is a good money resource and you can easily find high paying clients for your services

2-" Who Isn't a Good Fit For The Copyblogger Academy?

Amateurs' who want quick wins, cheap dopamine hits, and aspire to become TikTok influencers. "

Now he goes on both sides, shows the positive of he is it for and the negative of who isn't it for, and he defines the character this time with obvious bullshit that a business or service owner won't have like "quick wins" and "tiktok influencers"

3- " In 2022, my companies grossed more than $5 million. I'm now a millionaire and the best part is that I've never spent a single dollar on advertising. "

First he flexes with the money he made to build authority and proof, then he says that he never spent a dollar on advertising, this is actually very smart as he went very specific and chose "advertising" as it sounds good and he didn't lie about it,

Like if he said "I never spent a dollar" he would have lied as he obviously spent some on courses or building his website or whatever, but he went into a specific thing "advertising" so he can say the fact without lying, so he got the reader to put almost all his focus on "never spent a dollar" without having to lie or faking it.

3 tools + 1 extra

1- “Come for content, stay for community.” a great formula for fascinations , convinces the reader about something greater than the reason he may come for, like if he came for money he will find something even better that will make him stay like community or whatever

2- gives live feed about the community interactions, an excellent way to produce trust. Picture below

3- shows real examples of great results for building trust, the unique thing i noticed is how he had these squares of before and after that will immediately grab your attention and deliver the idea in a great easy to digest way so lazy people can just look at it and no need to read, and its so simple and easy to make.

Here's Real Examples Of Copywriting Grabbing More Revenue With Minimal Effort...

Online Wine Merchant

Here is an email from an online wine merchant we helped. Their emails before any copywriting training were bringing in ~$500/email, which meant they were losing money in their business!

After some copywriting training on how to write a great sales email, they were consistently hitting email revenues of 10x (and sometimes 15x) that amount per email:

PER EMAIL

OPENS: 13%
CLICKS: 1.0%

AFTER

OPENS: 29%
CLICKS: 6.7%

The amount of emails sent out was not changed. The amount of money spent on marketing was not changed. The set of customers was not changed.

The only thing that was changed was the copy in the emails!

4- first grabs your attention with this certificate shield, then offers you the ability to give a feedback and personal response if you didn't get what you expected , this minimizes the risk for the customer or reader.

Satisfaction Is Guaranteed. If you give our programs an honest try, come to our office hours sessions, ask for help from the community, and are still not satisfied with our materials, tell us and we'll take care of you.

Analyzing rightmessage.com sales page

3 tools 1 extra

1- you can see how the design gives you a small simple copy building some authority, then immediately offers you a free value (creating survey) with a little text beneath it (no sign up required) pretty well made for lazy ass people.

Segment your email list with surveys & quizzes

Get more than just names and email addresses. Find out who's on your list, what they need from you, and use what you learn to send personalized emails and to understand your audience better.

Create Your First Survey
(no sign up required!)

2- if the reader continues down he will immediately get hit with a slap on his face, a video clearly labeled “rightmessage 3 minute tour” , also good for curious and lazy people as they will get more information in a simpler form which is a video cause video consumes less brain calories than text (if made well), also the statement “3 minute” ensures the reader that the video is short and easy

3- proceeds with an intriguing copy (probably DIC) broken into small easy to read paragraphs of maximum 4 lines, that pushes the reader to continue reading, as know its targeting curious people who're invested in reading and knowing more

No one wants to feel like "one of many."

Numbers are sexy. There's nothing quite like knowing that your list has X thousand people on it, and every day Y more people join. You have your Z% average open rate. And your unsubscribes are low (yay!)

...But your list is more than just numbers, right? These are people. People who trust you enough to say, I want your content in my inbox. People who want to be treated like the individuals they are.

People want to know they're being heard. According to mega-consultancy McKinsey, "Seventy-one percent of consumers expect companies to deliver personalized interactions."

The trouble is... it's not very easy to get this information.

Sure, you could email a form out to your list. You can then set up the form to synchronize submissions up to your email database. But to match submissions with subscribers in your email database, you'll need to get the people filling out your form to enter in their email address.

But not only is this tedious to set up, it also results in a pretty poor user experience:

✗ Your subscribers need to type in their email address so you can match their submission with their subscriber record. If they type in the wrong address... the whole thing falls apart.

✗ You can't customize your survey or quiz to show different content, like questions, to different people. (e.g. show this question only to those tagged 'Customer')

✗ If someone decides not to answer all of your questions and closes their browser's tab, you won't learn anything about them.

Last year, we decided to build the ultimate survey and quiz tool. One that knows your audience. One that knows how creators like you work. And we've done exactly that.

Easy to set up. Easy to create your questions. Easy to design and configure. Easy to integrate. Easy, easy, easy.

Here's everything you need to know...

4- the reader faces a big fascination of "4 steps" that leads to 4 separated paragraphs explaining every step with each one having a fascination hooking the reader rather than a regular title, with each one containing an intriguing picture like the robot that represents AI or a chain that I think is just there to grab attention

Zero to "fully segmented email list" in just 4 steps:

STEP 1:

Begin with one of our pro designed templates

We've curated an assortment of visually stunning designs that you can use to create a great survey.

These templates include a bunch of conversion-optimized elements, like countdown timers and progress meters, and look great on screens both big and small.

Of course, we know that you're going to want to go wild and tweak the size of the borders, the amount of top margin, and so on. When you're ready, our editor gives you a full "What-You-See-Is-What-You-Get" editing environment (if you can create slides in Powerpoint or Keynote, using RightMessage will be a breeze.)

STEP 2:

We help you conjure up the perfect questions to ask your list

We want nothing to stand in the way between you and knowing your audience.

To help kickstart your segmentation-fu, we've built a clever A.I. that will crawl your website and come up with a list of questions and answers.

You'll tweak these a bit (after all, A.I. is good but not that good yet). These questions will be designed to help you understand WHO's on your list (industry? job role? company size? and all the other data you won't get from Google Analytics), and WHAT they need your help with (starting a business? scaling what they've got? selling their company?)

STEP 3:

Been burned by 'easily integrate with XYZ!' in the past? You'll love this...
