

Key Messages for Humanitarian Engagement at COP31

The 31st Session of the Conference of the Parties to the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) or COP 31, will be taking place in Antalya, Türkiye, from 9-20 November 2026.

The Climate and Environment Charter Secretariat has identified a list of key messages developed by Signatories and partners, which may be relevant for humanitarian organizations and Charter signatories engaging at COP31. Key messages are concise, strategic statements that encapsulate the core priorities, goals, and calls to action for stakeholders engaging at COP31. They are designed to communicate essential points clearly and drive alignment on climate action commitments throughout the conference.

Do you have key messages or calls to actions that you think humanitarian organizations may be interested in seeing? Email us at secretariat@climate-charter.org

In the spirit of strengthening multilateralism, this COP is a chance to leverage synergies across the Paris Agreement, the Sendai Framework for Disaster Risk

Reduction, and the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development to enhance efficiency, reduce fragmentation, and accelerate implementation of all three agreements ahead of 2030.

From Promise to Delivery: Scaling Up Adaptation Finance for Those Most at Risk - CARE's COP31 Policy Paper

CARE International recognizes the need for private finance in climate action. Private finance should be viewed as complementary to, not a replacement for, public climate finance. Public climate finance remains essential, particularly for adaptation, loss and damage, and support to vulnerable and fragile countries and communities where private investment is often limited. As climate finance commitments under the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) and the Paris Agreement are obligations agreed between countries, CARE International believes that international climate negotiations must continue to prioritize ambitious, predictable, and accessible public climate finance that reaches the local level and communities most affected by climate change.

Political momentum and coalitions will need to build over the coming month to seize opportunities at COP31. COP31 outcomes must be anchored in the urgency of the climate crisis—current threats to livelihoods, future climate impacts and an approaching 1.5°C overshoot world—and provide reassurance that countries are collectively accelerating action and support. Success at COP31 will also require diplomatic finesse from the two leading countries, Türkiye hosting and serving as COP31 President and Australia serving as the President of Negotiations, to bring the international community together to deliver across a number of fronts. This briefing sets out four key benchmarks that must shape the COP's negotiated and non-negotiated outcomes.
