Manuscript Submission Template

Journal of New Horizon in Higher Education

Use this template to prepare your manuscript. Replace the guidance text under each heading with your content. Manuscripts must be written in English. The journal accepts research articles, academic articles, and book reviews.

Title

Concise and informative; reflect the study design and scope. Avoid abbreviations.

Title page (separate file - not in the anonymized manuscript)

Full names, affiliations, email addresses, and ORCID iDs of all authors; corresponding author clearly indicated; acknowledgements and funding sources.

Abstract

150–250 words. For research articles: purpose, method (design, sample, instruments, analysis), key results, and conclusion. No citations or undefined abbreviations.

Keywords

3 - 6 keywords, separated by semicolons.

Introduction

Background and context; the problem or gap; why the study is necessary; the purpose and explicit research questions or objectives (each objective must have corresponding methods, results, and conclusions).

Literature Review

A critical synthesis, not a topic list: position your contribution against existing work and justify the study. Define key constructs and use terminology consistently throughout.

Methodology (research articles)

Research design; population, sample, and selection method (report sizes consistently throughout the manuscript); instruments with quality evidence (e.g., validity, reliability per component); data collection procedures; data analysis; ethics approval and informed consent statement.

Results

Present findings by research question/objective. Number tables and figures, cite each in the text, interpret values (not only overall means), and define all abbreviations in notes. Figures must be original or used with permission and cited.

Conclusion and Discussion

Summarize findings against the objectives; discuss with reference to prior literature; state the advantages and limitations of the study; ensure claims do not exceed the evidence presented.

Suggestions / Implications

Implications for practice and suggestions for further research.

References

APA 7th edition. Every in-text citation must appear in the list and vice versa; verify all DOIs; check whether preprints have published versions.

Anonymization checklist (for the review copy)

Remove author names, affiliations, acknowledgements, funder names, named systems/servers that identify authors, and self-identifying citations (cite as "Author, year" in the list). Remove author names from file metadata (File > Info > Inspect Document), including figure and diagram files.
