BASE TRAITS (these apply for EVERY void demon!!!)

1) Fire Mane (hair)

Their mane of void flame that does not burn or sear but instead produces low heat. It can take various shapes and lengths, and it can dim down or flare up depending on mood or energy levels. Like every splash of color on the Void Demons, it's between pink and purple, with the brightness depending on the variation of demon. Also like their makings, these manes glow.

2) Albino / Hyperpigmented

If a void demon is born from an explosion of Void energy far away from a nexus, they will be albino. If they are born in the core of the Void Maw nexus they will become hyperpigmented. The chance of these events happening are SUPER RARE and rarely ever heard of.

All albino Void Demons have off white, very pale purple or pinky skin, white eyelashes and pastel light flames. Even their horns take a lighter cast to them, often looking desaturated and lighter.

Hyperpigmented demons on the other hand, have dark skin no matter the variant, dark horns and a notably darker purple or pink flame color. The rest of their markings are also deeper and darker, including their eyes.

Examples of an albino and a hyperpigmented Void Demon

3) Navel Seal (womb tattoo)

All void demons have a navel seal, a symbol that's unique to everyone. This seal can be used to create or "summon" the individual's genitalia of preference, be it a penis, vagina or anus regardless of their chosen body (female or male presenting). These genitals will be extremely like a human's with only miniscule variation, be it some sort of bumps or a slight change in shape. The design of the Seal tends to have hearts, wings, spines, tails or eye symbols, and each is unique to the individual.

4) Eyes and hands

All void demons have a fully colored and darker sclera than the iris, which is lighter and somewhat faint, with slit pupils the same color as the sclera. The exact brightness and hue of the colors depend on the variant and the individual. It's also interesting to note that void demons don't have eyebrows, instead oftentimes either markings or armored plates will take their place.

Personally, for the eyes I just paint a single color for the sclera and the iris is an add, luminosity or screen layer with the same color at about 50-70%, where I draw the iris and erase out the slit pupil.

All their hands are clawed, and even when they have armored areas in their hands, the armor itself forms claws. These claws aren't necessarily super sharp, but some do sharpen them and use them as melee weapons.

5) Extra Traits

ALL VOID DEMONS CAN HAVE THESE EXTRA TRAITS!!! Keeping in mind their rarity.

-Multiple eyes

These can be from 3 to as many eyes as you want. Most of the time they show up on the face, but eyes elsewhere on the body can also be found in some void demons.

-Multiple Horns

From 3 to 8 horns max, these follow a similar style as the other horns found on the demon, however these can vary in size and shape.

-Multiple limbs

Mainly shown as a minimum of 4 and max of 6 arms on a void demon.

-Tails

Void demons can also develop tails, often seen as a minimum of 1 and max of 10 and they can vary wildly in shape. Some can even have fire-like hair in the end or around it, maybe armored pieces if the variant has armor like the Thionian or lexian.

-Tusks

Similar to typical fantasy orcs or even my own Aarakan species, Void demons can have tusks in their mouths, and it can be either from the top or bottom part of the mouth, with a maximum of 4 tusks.

-Wings

Most of the time, wings on Void demons will be semi translucent frilled wings, with the membranes sharing the color of the markings and glowing, but this can differ. While variation on the wings is drastic, one thing you will never see on them is actual feathers. Instead, sometimes the frills in the wing take on a feathered look like seen below. They can have a minimum of 2 wings and a max of 6.

Concerning the extra traits, it is HIGHLY RECOMMENDED to ease up on the number of them, as well as how much of a trait you will have on yours!!! Making a void demon with 6 wings, 8 horns, 10, eyes, 6 arms and more will make it very difficult to draw and will take away from the design.

6) Clothing

Void demons are always naked, only using piercings or accessories to decorate themselves. In some VERY strange cases however, especially if a void demon will want to personally interact with another sentient being, they might wear very small clothing mainly in the shape of tiny pieces of cloth, leather, metal or even sheer to cover their breasts and groin area. This normally would happen to make it easier to talk with others with minimal distractions.

VARIANTS

(NOTICE THAT EACH VARIANT HAS A RARITY!! AND THE SAME RULES APPLY!! IN ORDER TO MAKE A RARE VARIANT YOU NEED A SLOT RESERVATION)

Common Variants

Thionic

Void demons from the volcanic lands of Thion have a gradient skin between 2 types of a vibrant purple. They have Black or dark purple horns and sections of "armor" that look to be made from a stone or bone like material. Also their eyes are very light in color and a more saturated gradient of this color can be seen in their flaming manes.

Their armored pieces tend to always cover their hands and feet, while sections of it can show up around the rest of their body but are scarce. About 30% of their body bears these plates, and their horns are made of the same thing.

Aphioxian

Void demons from the dense and mutated forests of Aphion have very dark gray skin and black limbs. Their skin also has slightly lighter gray segments and bright purple lines that glow. Both the eyes and the flaming mane have the same color as the lines although the mane has a gradience. Their horns share the same color as the markings but are a bit darker in color. Their glowing lines can also show up in their horns, framed by black.

The exact colors of their skin is shown on the MYO sheet next to the first segment (body and arm) the first color is that of the lighter sections, the second is the main skin tone and the third is the color in the limbs.

Uncommon Variants

Nunnian

The void demons from the Snowcapped wonderland of Nunn have light gray/white skin fading to black on their limbs. They also have sharp diamonds like black scales scattered through their bodies and their markings are a mix of black and glowing purple lines. Their horns are a gradient from black to the accent purple color, with their mane being another gradient of 2 vibrant purple hues.

While other void demons have nipples that are a darker shade than their skin tone, these ones have them the same color as their markings. Aside from this, it's important to know that their diamond shaped scales don't completely cover the body, most times they are found in little groups of 2-4 depending on the zone.

Odrian

The demons from the crystal speckled mesa of Odrion have dark purple skin that shifts into black in their limbs. Their markings have a twisting and turning script like design and have a gradient between 2 different purple hues. These are scarce in their bodies compared to other variants. Most times they also have black areas in their face, neck and hands but these can spread further. The horns in this species break easily but remain floating where they originally were and are a very common sight to see. The manes of the Odrian demons are the most saturated of them all, with a gradient between two bright purple colors.

Most times the inside of their ears are also black like the zones around their eyes and in their necks.

Rare Variants

Nyrian

The demons of Nyria live in mushroom forested lands and have a semi vibrant purple skin with the outer edges darker than their core. Similar to the Thionian demons, they have bone-like structures across their bodies, but they are creamy in color instead of dark. Unique to their species also is that their horns float completely above their heads by an inch. Their markings are fewer than many of the other demons and share a light purple color with their eyes. This somewhat carries over to their flaming manes, which are light in color with it darkening towards the ends.

Often you will see their creamy bony plates in their fingers and toes, making sharp claws.

Craonian

The demons of Crao live in the dark of immense cave networks, their pale skins with purple limbs standing stark against the dark around them. Their eyes always match the same color as their limbs and in rare occasions they may develop very few markings elsewhere in their bodies, also their manes are relatively darker than most. Like other variants they have bone-like armor that is most commonly found in large heavy plates around the upper body. However, this can change depending on the individual with some having the armor more on their lower half or extremities. Their horns and much of their armor also has deep depressions or holes in them, giving it an organic look.

Aside from the limbs having the purple fading markings, they can also be seen in their ears.

Super Rare Variants

Xaethian

The demons from the rocky plains and deserts of Xaethis have near black skin with broad markings that shift from one purple hue to another in a gradient. This also spreads to their horns, which are cupped around the base in one of their ochre bone like plates. These plates cover much of their body, functioning like armor. Their flame manes are very light in color with a slight degradation to a darker hue near the end. Their eyes also share this very bright color.

Often you can also find these plates in the edge of their ears, giving them a sharp and aggressive look.

Ilexian

The demons from the huge, towering peaks and cloud seas of Ilenia have a lighter yet still dark cool gray skin, with zones being a near black color. Their markings tend to be of a single purple color and glow, but in some cases can also be a degradation of 2 close purple hues; their eyes also share this coloration. Much like the Xaethian demons, their bodies are covered in a bone like armor, but theirs is light gray to white in color and smaller in size. Their manes have a medium vibrancy and are also a gradient between 2 different purple hues.
