DEFINITION

EXAMPLES

One or more angles connected at a point, where turning through each angle one after the other results in facing the opposite direction to the initial direction.

CHARACTERISTICS

- Two or more lines connected to a single point.
 - The angles make a semicircle around the point
 The total turn is 180°

Angles at a point on a straight line

NON-EXAMPLES

