

A group of committed participants convene in two-hour Zoom sessions for learning and reflection based on readings and personal reflection assignments. The workshops rely on spiritual guidance and systems thinking to be effective.

LEARNING METHODOLOGY & OBJECTIVES

The learning methodology of this program provides personal, interpersonal, systemic, and global competency development. The program is unique because it helps potential elders and ministers to tap their internal strengths to better promote peaceful resolutions to conflict. The methods learned are also useful to rising Clerks and other Quaker leaders. Participants are provided with a toolbox to facilitate reconciliation intervention in community, organizational, national, and global settings. Initially developed for a United Nations setting, the approach has been broadly applied by participants to family feuds, community conflicts, national disputes, and global challenges.

Learning methodologies include interactive presentations, dialogue, small group work, and experiential, spiritual, and vocational development integrated with mission-focused training. Participant leaders learn new skills and develop their own mission statements with sensitive and skilled guidance.

HISTORY OF THE WORKSHOPS

The program is based on 30 years of practice and training in the United Nations Community and New England Yearly Meeting and beyond and is based on the Quaker Peace Testimony, the teachings of mentor elder Elise Boulding, the Hopi Prophecy, and the Friends Committee on National Legislation Dismantling Militarism and Racism report.

In the 1990s, Friends Meeting at Cambridge (MA) supported a campaign to bring Reconciliation Leadership and a peacebuilding process of reconciliation to United Nations Headquarters in New York City. The peacebuilding process is now a Global Mediation and Reconciliation Service introduced at the Hague Appeal for Peace in 1999.

The Obadiah Brown Benevolent Fund, the Lyman Fund and the Legacy Witness Program, administered by the Legacy Gift Committee, funded the New England Yearly Meeting pilot program September 2023-March 2024. The Legacy Award states “To allow Virginia Swain to transform the program she developed to train RLs during a 30-year leadership at the United Nations and offer it to NEYM Quakers as the Reconciliation Leadership Program for NEYM. This program is designed to stabilize and empower Meetings to develop leaders who are led to heal historic and current challenges. Reconciliation Leaders are potential Elders in Monthly and Yearly Meetings, willing to offer wisdom, emotional balance, and inner peace in troubled times.

In 2022 I was led to offer the program to Friends for my legacy journey. New England Yearly Meeting Program Director Nia Thomas supervised the transition in a pilot program and provided evaluation. A post-pilot content review was completed in June 2024. Strengthened by pilot participant feedback and revisions, the updated 6-module workshop curriculum is now on google classroom with lesson plans available on request.

Quaker Reconciliation Leaders facilitate the peacebuilding process of reconciliation to offer a culture of elders and ministers who facilitate peaceful co-existence as a first step towards reconciliation, so that family, community, national, and global challenges can be freed to release untapped potential for resolution of their challenges.

COURSE OUTLINE

The program modules 1-5 introduce the personal, interpersonal, systemic and global competencies.

Module 6 helps the Reconciliation Leader in training develop a practice and become a Reconciliation Leader. The overview of each module is embedded in the module title.

Modules 5 and 6 are still in development. Each module title has an overview url.

The program has common assumptions and core principles.. They are as follows:

1. Co-create, with Loving Presence, a safe, trusting, healing, nurturing environment in which we are able to take risks and grow
2. The inherent goodness in all people and the shadow as guide and teacher; self-esteem, confidence, and clarity of mission as a way to face our limitations
3. Affirm and deepen our sense of goodness even as we confront and overcome obstacles
4. Spiritual direction to develop a regular spiritual practice; learn to access our deepest hopes and visions to develop a co-creative relationship with Loving Presence so that every moment is informed by being a co-creator with Divine.
5. Learn Imaging (Boulding) as central to RL
6. Restore faith in ourselves in order to help others restore faith in themselves and in humanity, understanding that personal transformation is global transformation
7. Understand that systems exist at all levels of being: individual, interpersonal, group, global
8. Recognize that identifying and understanding these systems is crucial to dismantling racism, sexism, classism, and other forms of oppression
9. RLs do not see a dichotomy between working locally and globally, between loving one's country and loving the world, between national citizenship and global citizenship. Nor do they separate their inner journey from their work in the world. They are in unison. Their spiritual paths bridges these dichotomies and are grounded in a consciousness of the oneness of life
10. Understand the systemic intervention process: entry, assessment, planning, implementation, follow-up and evaluation.
