

CRITICAL DISABILITY

graphite on strathmore
14" x 11"

This drawing reflects the life of a climate refugee with a critical disability. It is also a metaphor for how the climate crisis is affecting people. Many people are experiencing displacement due to climate change, but it is not always so easy to pack up and leave, and for some it is impossible. The drawing is based off of Andrew Wyeth's Christina's World.
