

Pain State Updated

My current state is painful because I have gone into bed 3 TIMES in 3 DAYS! skipped my all-nighters and procrastinated about doing copywriting after I said the fact I said I was serious. I know deep in my soul I need to work hard to become successful and I choose the winner lifestyle so it doesn't matter how I feel I need to work on my off days just as good on my on days and I have to incorporate the winners life change my current lazy mindset, body, and spirit to become successful and the winner I want to be there's no excuses towards being a winner I have to not just reach but, bleed and go through mental physical change in order to become better and adapt to every mistake I have possible made and overcome them and only do the things that will get me rich as soon as possible with dedicated hard work to make my bloodline not disappear to the endless factor of time and make a name for myself so I need to develop a stronger, more adaptable, and hard working mindset. I either need to find a way or make a way in all my struggles and mistakes I'm currently facing or my past mistakes that I can't fix but I need but need to adapt effectively to break my current weak mindset and train my mind towards doing hard things and have a unstoppable mindset of power that will help me get to where I want to be and I hold myself and this wonderful campus accountable towards what I do currently to not give up like the average bookie who plays video game but become the successful man I truly always wanted to become it all starts now.

Desired Dream State

I will become a high-status individual that says what he means and means what he says, have unlimited clients that want me for the value I can offer towards their business or market with million dollar commissions and pay off everything for my family become a interesting individual utilize my copywriting skills into my speech and become a great influence and become a interesting individual that everyone wants to talk to be. I also am going to learn tons of new skills to print money from the sky become a top influencer become know towards the universe from my bloodline a duty towards my ancestors, and most importantly to God and I might sound like a nerd but compete my Skylanders collection for every game it was my childhood but to make it even better have multiple girls with me doing nerdy shit but since I'm so interesting they wouldn't give a flying goose shit.