Extreme Home Makeover: Chrysalids Edition

John Wyndham's futuristic novel, The Chrysalids, is a story about a fearfully intolerant post-apocalyptic community in Labrador, Canada. At the centre of this tale is the protagonist David, a boy who lives in a tension-filled household headed by his devoutly deviant-phobic father. The Storm family's walls are decorated with axioms that do not conform to the values promoted in Canadian society today. As this family home is desperately in need of a twenty-first century makeover, three alternative axioms will be suggested to help make the Storm home more welcoming in a modern Canadian context.

(re-word the thesis and remind your audience that the addition of new axioms is just one step toward encouraging attitudes more in tune with the realities of twenty-first century Canadian society.) Finish with a strong concluding statement. Remember this paragraph is the last impression you leave on your reader. Do not rush the conclusion.
