

Micro-Consulting Agreement & Terms of Service

By booking this service you acknowledge and agree to the following terms and boundaries for your consulting time:

- Scope of Service: I understand that this is a high-level strategic advisory session intended to provide feedback, insight, and actionable next steps for my organization's challenges. It is not an ongoing training program or an implementation service.
- Attendees: To maximize the value and focus of this session, attendance is strictly limited to a maximum of two (2) participants from my organization.
- No Guarantees: I understand that I am paying for dedicated access to an experienced consulting professional who will provide tailored recommendations based on the data I provide. Purpose Possible does not guarantee specific outcomes, awards, or financial targets as a result of this session.
- AI Recording: For data accuracy and wrap-up reporting purposes, I understand that this virtual session may be recorded by an AI note-taker.
- Cancellation & Rescheduling: Because consultant calendars are tightly managed, I agree to provide at least 48 business hours notice if I need to reschedule this session. Please note: Saturdays and Sundays do not qualify within this 48-hour timeframe. Late cancellations or no-shows may result in forfeiture of the session fee.
- Consulting Time: I agree to abide by the specific timeframe selected (1 or 2 hours). If additional consulting time is needed, I will request and purchase an additional block of time.
- Conditions: The information, content, and materials provided by Purpose Possible are for informational and educational purposes only and do not constitute legal, financial, tax, or investment advice. Your use of our website, services, or materials does not create an attorney-client, financial advisor, or fiduciary relationship between you and Purpose Possible. Because every situation is unique, you should consult with a qualified, licensed attorney, certified public accountant (CPA), or certified financial planner before making any legal or financial decisions. Purpose Possible is not liable for any actions taken or decisions made based on the information provided.

For any questions or concerns, please contact info@purposepossible.com