

Julien Durix launches Genesis NFT collection

Famous French artist Julien Durix launches his NFT collection on the Ethereum blockchain - Genesis NFT. However, it is not merely "just another collection" - Genesis boasts unique features and utility never before seen in the NFT world.

Julien Durix is one of the most prominent modern artists in Europe. He has over 500 real physical works that are sold at top auction houses and art galleries like the Bartoux Galleries for $10,000-500,000 each. And now his art becomes more accessible than ever for the general public thanks to blockchain technologies and NFTs.

The Genesis NFT collection contains 5,555 tokens with unique artworks, created by Julien. But it doesn't end here: in addition to the artwork, every NFT contains a piece of music created by one of the most prominent composers in the United States that worked with Dr. Dre, Beyoncé, Justin Timberlake and many others. In other words, the Genesis NFT collection is a unique collaborative project that brings music and art together using Web 3.0.

By the way, 111 of Genesis tokens will be dedicated to Tony Parker - the most successful French NBA player of all time. So the collection is valuable not only for art connoisseurs, but also for sports fans..

Additionally, there is a "progressive burn" mechanic added to the collection - NFT holders can burn their tokens in exchange for unique physical art pieces. Thus, a solid bridge between the real world and NFT art space is created.

Genesis NFT holders will also get access to limited editions of new Julien's works every year, created exclusively for them.

And finally, Genesis NFT holders will also be able to direct the further development of the project: minting new collections, their themes and many other aspects of the future Julien's work will be decided by the Genesis NFT holders community via voting.

Genesis NFT will drop on [date]. The mint price is set at 0,28 ETH per token. In order to participate in the initial minting it is required to join the Whitelist, which will be possible on multiple occasions and at various events prior to the mint date.
