Re: X-Ray Policy

I am aware that in the past some patients have wished not to have x-rays taken. However, it is my legal duty in a doctor-patient relationship to comply with the rules governing the "Standard of Care" in the practice of dentistry set by the American Dental Association and by The State Board of Dental Examiners. Thus, to remain in compliance, this office is unable to treat any patient without the necessary diagnostic x-rays. As a dentist, I must uphold this standard and I am sure you would not wish for yourself or your loved ones to be treated by any health professional who operated on a lesser level.
