SL: This wrapper upgrades any cigar from a 1 to an 8

Hi [first name],

Remember the first time you smoked a Bongani cigar and tasted that complex, rich, sweet and creamy smoke?

That's the taste of the best cigar wrapper in the world, and it comes from Africa.

This wrapper is so highly respected it's dubbed "The Golden Standard".

It's found on dozens of cigars that won first place, top 5, and top 25 awards.

Don't believe me? Check this out:

(The list is huge, so here are some name drops)

1. Arturo Fuente Don Carlos Eye of the Shark - this is a $300 cigar from the Dominican Republic, and it won "#1 Cigar of the Year" in 2017.
2. Cohiba Espléndido - this is a $135 cigar from Cuba, and it won 3 different "#1 Cigar of the Year" awards in 2017.
3. Padrón Serie 1926 No. 90 - this is a $30 cigar from Nicaragua, and it won "#1 Cigar of the Year" in 2014.

That's right, even the Cubans used this wrapper for their award-winning Cohiba Espléndido.

So what is "The Golden Standard"? And why is it so special?

This is the Cameroon wrapper, and it's so highly sought after that distributors gatekeep these wrappers for big-name brands.

There are 3 reasons why the Cameroon wrapper is so highly sought after:

1. It is the only wrapper that's grown on volcanic soil, which is rich in minerals.

This upbringing gives the Cameroon leaf a complex aroma and a slightly earthy taste.

2. The Cameroon wrapper has many oily bumps - which are densely packed with natural sugars.

When the wrapper is lit up, you get that delicious smoke with notes of honey, vanilla, and cinnamon. ( And that creamy mouthfeel.)

3. The Cameroon wrapper is thin and delicate, so only cigar-rolling masters can roll a proper cigar with one of these wrappers.

So to put it simply, the uniquely sweet and complex “award-winning flavor profile” is what makes the wrapper so highly sought after.

And I purchase the sweetest, finest, and freshest Cameroon wrappers directly from one of the most exclusive distributors in Cameroon, Africa.

This allows me to create all my African award-winning cigars in Mozambique, and deliver world-class hand-rolled cigars.

So if you want to smoke a unique, premium, and African award-winning cigar...

Subject Line: Pair these 3 African desserts with your luxury cigars

Hello <FN>!

I'm super excited to share my top 3 favorite desserts to pair with the Bongani Robusto.

Keep in mind, taste and pairings are subjective.

I personally prefer cold desserts with my cigars, but I'll start off the list with a sweet, warm, and crumbly cake!

1. Basbousa

Basbousa is a popular cake in North Africa.

It's a sweet semolina cake soaked in a fragrant syrup.

It can be flavored with orange flower water, rosewater, or lemon syrup.

The cake itself is crumbly and light, and the syrup adds a touch of moisture and sweetness.

If you love soft sweet cakes and subtly milk-chocolaty, earthy, medium-bodied cigars...

Then you absolutely have to try this pairing!

(I'm getting hungry just writing this email.)

Next we have a sweet, earthy, and cold ice cream.

2. Rooibos Ice Cream

Rooibos is a popular South African ice cream.

It has a unique and subtle flavor that is slightly nutty and caramel-like.

The rooibos tea adds a hint of earthiness and a touch of bitterness, which is balanced by the sweetness of the ice cream base.

It's my personal favorite pairing - especially when I want something sweet and complimentary to my Bongani Robusto.

(The taste of cold ice cream followed by the warm smoke delivers a unique type of joy.)

And lastly, a refreshing, cold, tangy, and citrusy smoothie.

3. Mango Moose

Mango Moose is a light and delicious smoothie that's widely cultivated throughout Africa, but is particularly popular in West Africa.

This smoothie has the sweetness of the mango, but is balanced by the creaminess of the mousse, making it a perfect companion for the Bongani Robusto.

Perhaps I'll write another email centered around the 458 for those who like shorter smokes.

Let me know if that's something that would interest you.

For those who want to meet and learn more about my team in Maputo, check your email on Tuesday next week!

In the meantime, hit the reply button and let me know what questions you have for my team!

Subj: You otter check this out

Hey FN,

Did you know May 29th is the World Otter Day?

In case you didn't know, Africa has its own species of otter - the African clawless otter.

African otters hold the title for the biggest body-to-brain ratio among all carnivores in southern Africa.

And today, Oscar the African otter:

Is here to remind you that Bongani is holding a special, “no brainer,” 3-day sale in celebration of the international “Enjoy a Cigar Day.”

Until May 31st (midnight), you can save 20% OFF all creamy, earthy, and peppery Bongani cigars with code:

Enjoy20

Sure, you could wait until Friday to order Bongani cigars...

But if you place your order today, you can smoke your Bongani Cigars on May 31st (international “Enjoy a Cigar Day”) instead of waiting for them.

Place your order to show Oscar your gratitude!

Thank you Oscar, I will place my order now! :)

Subj: Why Mallow chased the mailman (in a car)

Subj: Mallow caught the mailman?

From: The Mailman

Sbj: Why Mallow chased me with a car

Sbj: Mallow almost caught me?

Hey [First Name],

Meet Mallow the Frenchie:

Mallow usually sits in the back seat, but today she's behind the steering wheel chasing after the mailman.

Why? Because he forgot to deliver her gourmet, savory chicken-flavored Moe's Hip & Joint chews!

Think of the juiciest chicken you've ever tasted on Thanksgiving.

Then add a gentle sweetness (like caramelized carrots) and a gentle earthiness (rosemary after a roast).

Then imagine the perfect muffin - slightly crunchy on the outside and soft as a cloud on the inside.

Now combine everything into one palm sized, soft and juicy, crunchy treat.

Look at that! Mallow is chasing the mailman on paw, and she's running without any pain thanks to her Moe's Hip and Joint chews.

These delicious chews are packed with krill oil, Glucosamine, Chondroitin, and MSM in order to:

- lubricate her joints - reduce joint friction, allowing Mallow to chase the mailman on paw longer (only after he ran out of gas - she swears)
- protect her cartilage - keep Mallow arthritis free long into her "golden years"

- reduce inflammation - alleviate her pain & stiffness, so Mallow can rest hard after a well-earned chase (free of pain)

Looks like the mailman finally dropped her treats, so Mallow is woofing a message to you.

In case you didn't study Frenchie in school, we'll translate for you.

From: Super Lubricator
Subj: "Super Lubricator" cures doggy limp (in 7 days)
Subj: Lubricator that rebuilds doggy cartilage?
Subj: Doggy lubricator ends limping in 7 days?

Hey [First Name],

It's finally winter!

The only time of the year when temperatures drop below 50 degrees, ice plagues sidewalks, and dog walks become shorter than "New Year resolutions".

As a result, both you and your doggy get less exercise and put on more weight.

But here's the difference, while you won't feel the few extra pounds, your doggy will.

Those extra pounds will press down on his tiny joints and create physical discomfort (even if he's just a "little overweight")...

So to ease the pain, he will:

- Lick his paws until they're raw and red (sometimes to the point of bleeding)
- Root himself to his bed and avoid walks (that's not the dog you know)
- Shift his weight to one side, limp, and yelp when you pick him up (leading to unnecessary vet trips and stress).

So if you're used to having a TV-watching couch buddy, a guest greeting hype-dog, or a sleeping cuddle buddy... your best friend won't be next to you for those everyday moments.

Buuuut not all hope is lost, your little buddy can still chill like Frosty the Snowman - free of pain even with those extra pounds. (before the summer heat of course)

Without any painkillers, “weight management” sessions, vet trips, or “joint support supplements” that release bouts of diarrhea (or worse, put him into a coma)...

All thanks to one of these “Super Lubricators” (AKA: Moe's Hip & Joint Chews)

Each “Super Lubricator” contains two powerful ingredients that ease doggy pain, White Turmeric and Krill Oil.

Unlike most “joint supplements” that use common turmeric, which trigger vomit, gas, and diarrhea...

Moe’s treats use White Turmeric to calm the stomach, aid digestion, and reinforce the joint shock absorbers.

And instead of using Salmon oil pressed from polluted salmon farms, we add the freshest Krill Oil on the market.

A super lubricant that hugs the joint, reduces friction, rebuilds cartilage, and protects it from breaking down.

And the best part is this “Super Lubricator” costs less than any painkiller, “weight management” session, vet trip, and “joint support supplement” on the market.

SL: "Zombie fish oil" supplements give you blood clots

SL: DANGER! Your fish oil supplements are rancid even if they don't smell yet

SL: "Zombie fish oil" plagues your fish supplements?

Did you know fish oil supplements can be rancid even if they don't look or smell the part?

Normally, fish oil supplements aren't supposed to smell or spoil.

But if the fish harvested for supplements were raised like this:

In disgusting, cramped, and toxic fish farms (AKA "water prisons")...

In cages filled with parasites, industrial waste, and factory feeds containing growth hormones and pesticides.

Then your "clean and fresh" supplements will smell and taste rancid (even if they don't look the part).

All because suppliers extract “Zombie Fish Oil” for low production costs.

While claiming to use “wild caught” or “ethically raised” fish.

But luckily, not every company is selling rotten fish oil.

That’s why I put together this free “fresh or fishy” report.

So you can find out if your supplement is the real deal in less than 30 seconds...

And discover if the same distributor is plaguing any of your other supplements under a sister company.

Click here to see who’s selling “Zombie Fish Supplements”

P.S. This list could be taken down as soon as tomorrow...

If you don’t want to keep consuming “Zombie Fish Supplements”, then check out this controversial report immediately.
