

COMBINE THE FOLLOWING PAIR OF SENTENCES , USING RELATIVE PRONOUNS.

1. A man lent me this hammer. He lives next door.
2. A girl fainted. She was standing behind me in the queue.
3. Have you met the family? They have just moved into the house next door.
4. A man telephoned me this morning. His company sells computers.
5. What was the name of the car? It won the Car of the Year award.
6. That is the man. I was talking about him last night.
7. Did you like the photo? I took it of you and your husband.
8. What did you do with the eggs? I bought them this morning.
9. You spoke to a man on the phone. That was my father.
10. They bought a house. It was very expensive.

COMPLETE THE FOLLOWING TEXT USING RELATIVE PRONOUNS.

- Aesop was a Greek writer probably lived in the 6th century BC. Little is known about his life. He wrote fables (short stories teach a particular lesson). Most of the fables he wrote are about animals speak and act like people. A fable most people have read is called “The hair and the Tortoise”.
1. Do you know the man did the research on illegal aliens?
 2. The Rock of Gibraltar, is at the southern tip of Spain, was the end of the world for ancient navigators.
 3. My cousin Andrew, works at home, has recently hooked up to Internet.
 4. It was early in the morning I heard someone knocking on the door.
 5. The man to you were introduced is a leading expert on media advertising.
 6. Conchita Martínez, name has been in the news recently, is world famous.
 7. The library where I found this information lets you access books on computer.
 8. Internet is a computer network is not controlled or owned by any company.
 9. The Internet, has 25 million users, is the world’s largest computer network.
 10. Anyone has a P.C. at home can hook up to Internet.
 11. The new video game we have just seen on television costs 23 pounds.
 12. Arancha Sánchez Vicario, is a very famous tennis player, has lost against Steffi Grafh more than 25 times.
 13. Do you know a night disco we can go dancing tonight?
 14. This woman, house we have just passed, is quite a celebrity in Spain.

15. Do you remember the time we met at university?