History

History:
Silas McAdams was the first born to a loving newlywed couple in the suburbs of Dallas, Texas. At 2 years old he welcomed his 2 siblings Samantha and Samuel (Twins) to the world. He grew up like an average kid in the 2000's. Played sports, did good in school, and was a well mannered kid. He got into the University of Texas on a partial scholarship. Then in his second semester of College tragedy hit. Both of his siblings were killed by a hit and run driver coming home from a baseball game. The driver was never found. After that Silas dropped out of college and joined the Marines to escape from the reality that was at home. He became Military Police where he was stationed in Quantico, Virginia and threw himself into his job. He quickly rose through the ranks all the way to Staff Sergeant. After 5 years of service with 3 left to go, one day he gets a call from the detective that had investigated the death of his siblings. She told him that the man responsible had turned himself in. After all this time, the guy finally had the guts to tell the truth. Enraged, Silas went AWOL to confront the spineless coward bringing only 2 things with him besides the clothes on his back, his service pistol and a bottle of Whiskey. He drove over 19 hours straight to where the man was being held while waiting for arraignment. Arriving in the early morning hours, Silas entered the Sheriff's office and convinced the front desk deputy that they were extraditing the killer to a military prison. Once he laid his eyes on the man, Silas pulled out his service pistol and shot the man in the head. Silas was then promptly arrested and brought to Fort Leavenworth where he was found guilty of Capital Murder and Article 86 (going AWOL). He was sentenced to life in prison, which is where he found his way to Site-002. After spending a year there, he was mysteriously transferred to Site-66, still unknown as to why to this day.
