☆ ¶ about me .

jil – she/her – 22 – filipino focused interests ; ib, don't starve together, endacopia, pokemon, deltarune hello, i'm jil. i am an artist who particularly likes to draw selfships and oc x canon material. this is considered a hobby that i do to cultivate my abilities in drawing and writing stories, though it has definitely been a medium for comfort for me when i need it.

i treat my blog as a digital diary to share about selfshipping. i approach this medium with the intent to create a story while adding self-indulgence into the mix. i've developed a fondness for creating lore for my ships because it allows the ship to have more depth and complexity to it. lore is just as important to me, unless stated otherwise. i am not limited to romantic ships, i am also quite fond of familial, platonic and non-traditional dynamics in ships and sometimes can incorporate them in my stories.

my interests are incredibly varied, but i am especially drawn towards video games of different genres. it is worth mentioning that i also enjoy media depicting mature, dark or eerie media, but i do my best to consume it critically. rest assured, i will most likely not bring them fourth to my blog.

i am currently a full-time college student in my (soon to be) third year, which means my activity can come off as inconsistent and/or sporadic at times.

i don't associate myself with the wider space of the selfship community, i prefer to stay close to friends and mutuals that i'm familiar with. i'm open to being mutuals, but it will take time for me to warm up. though i'm definitely a lot more easier to befriend if we share similar interests!

☆ ¶ what can i expect from your blog ?

- occasional art, lorepostings, and f/o/fandom reblogs. i also reblog ship imagines from time to time.
- me talking in full caps, it's second nature to me to react very strongly about things i like, or dislike.
- cursing. i curse a lot

☆ ¶ what are your boundaries ?

- generally, i do not enjoy proshipping material. it makes me uncomfortable

- if i don't like what i see, i will avoid it. there are bound to be things that i personally disagree with and is uncomfortable with, and i will simply turn my head away and disengage. i don't like policing others for what they like and/or dislike, because they're entitled to their opinions/interests but know that this is a possible reason why i could be avoiding.
- users below 18 are recommended not to interact. i enjoy mature media, including sexual themes.
- avoid real world discussions, primarily religion and politics.

(apologies for the potentially incorrect formatting!)

☆ ☞ about f/o sharing !

i. i am still questioning my status whether i'm a mirrorsharer or a direct nonsharer for my mains - but i think it all depends on the person i encounter. as much as possible, i will try to stray away from doubles, but if i made the effort to interact with you even if we are doubles - then chances are that i'm okay with you. (but it wouldn't hurt to ask me as well, just in case i overlooked your list! it happened to me recently lolol). i've had an experience with polite and "rude" doubles with me, so it REALLY depends on how we find each other, if that makes sense.

☆ ☞ how i categorize my characters !

i. OC (original character) - designed to look like a unique character, may or may not borrow a few traits (internal or external) off of me. don't address her as if she's the same person as me. i have friends who tend to f/o or crush on one of my OCs and you're totally okay to show interest in characters who fall under this label!

ii. S/I (self-insert) - totally intended to look, or resemble closely to me. feel free to address her as if that's simply me. i am not comfortable with people showing romantic interest in my S/Is because that's literally me.

iii. i won't be bothered if you accidentally address this whole bit wrong, i won't be mad, i promise! It's just a personal preference and if you're one to be cautious about stuff like this, this is for you!

☆ //faq: pokemon universes and my inserts/ocs !

if you noticed, i always make it clear that i have gameverse and mangaverse universes in the pokemon series. i have two pokemon insert/oc who have two versions depending on their universe gameverse typically refers to the in-game universe story you'd expect when you play the mainline pokemon games mangaverse refers to the pokemon adventures/pokemon special/pokespe that one could find when you read the manga of the aforementioned title.

:: jaide e. stone and jaide evergreen jaide e. stone is shipped with steven stone, and is focused primarily on the mangaverse. in this version, she is married to steven and has a child named ruby.

jaide evergreen is shipped with red, and is focused primarily on the gameverse. in this version, she is dating red and is focused on being a researcher and a trainer

ilynne's purpose remains the same, but her dynamics with other characters varies in the universe in the mangaverse, ilynne works for interpol with looker and her superintendent - blake (lacktwo). blake and ilynne goes undercover and she plays as a mother with blake being her "son", their goal is to weed out the secret team plasma girl who resides in aspertia school. while its true that they maintain this fake dynamic, her fake acting slowly becomes more genuine for him.

in the gameverse, ilynne is simply good friends with nate. nate always runs into her as he continues his adventure, and she always has something good to supply to him. she's a journalist and is hot on the trail for team plasma as well. she acts like his big sister.
