Frequently Asked Questions

What is COMEX?
COMEX is the world's top global exchange for metal futures trading, including gold, silver and copper. It’s a part of CME Group, based in the US.

Which commodities can I trade on ForexT via COMEX?
Primarily gold, silver, and copper. Other instruments may be added, solely based on the availability.

How do COMEX futures contracts work?
These contracts enable speculation on future metal prices. Most are closed before expiry, physical delivery isn’t the goal.

What amount should I invest?
As little as ₹500. No minimum balance — just fund based on your trade size.

When is COMEX open?
COMEX operates Sunday 6 PM to Friday 5 PM ET, with a one-hour daily break. In IST, this is from Monday 3:30 AM to Saturday 2:30 AM.

What moves commodity prices?
Global demand, supply issues, inflation news, and geopolitical events.

Any hidden fees?
None. No commissions, no markups. Just clean, direct trading.

Can beginners trade COMEX on ForexT? (To be confirmed)
Yes. The interface is designed to be user-friendly. We also provide expert tips and demo accounts for risk-free practice.

How does leverage affect my trading?
Leverage increases your position size. It can enhance gains, but also magnifies losses in rare cases. Use it wisely and always manage risk.
