Dorian Luther Middle School Music Camp

Every summer, around 400 student musicians entering grades 7, 8, and 9, spend a week at Luther College to study, explore, and perform music under the mentorship of Luther's music faculty. On a given day at camp, you will take part in ensemble rehearsals for band, choir, and/or orchestra, instrument-specific workshops, a wide variety of classes, and private lessons. In the evenings, you won't know where the time has gone by participating in evening talent nights, concerts, walks into town, and a variety of sports. The camp ends with a grand concert in Luther's Center for Faith and Life. As a camper, you will live in residence halls on campus and eat meals at the college cafeteria. A dedicated, caring group of college-age counselors and Luther College alumni supervise the halls and daily activities.

UW-Whitewater Musical Theater/Choir Camp

The UW-Whitewater Summer Musical Theatre/Choir Camp is dedicated to providing middle school and high school students an excellent, week-long, concentrated theatrical and musical experience. One or more short musicals will be presented, as well as performances in large and small ensembles. Students will have the opportunity to explore and/or deepen their skills in singing, acting, and dance. Students may participate in recitals and master classes, and can choose to receive private voice lessons from our professional staff for an additional fee. Class offerings enable students to expand their artistic horizons. A balanced program of musical instruction and supervised recreational activities creates an atmosphere conducive to total learning, fun and individual growth. This camp is available to singers who are entering grades 7-12 and graduating seniors.

UW-Whitewater Solo Voice Camp

This is the ideal camp for young singers who have some solo experience and would like to learn more about their voice and the world of the singer/actor in a supportive atmosphere. Students interested in pursuing a career in vocal performance or vocal music education are encouraged to attend. Daily Master Classes will include stage deportment, song interpretation, diction for singers, and working with conductors. Students will receive daily lessons (included in camp fee) that will focus on posture, breathing, support, and healthy production and projection of the voice. Coaching is also an integral part of the solo singer's life. Students will also have coaching with pianists and faculty on collaboration. Evenings will consist of student recitals, mock audition seminars and performances by faculty and staff. Available to campers entering grades 9-12 in the fall, and graduating seniors.

UW-Madison Summer Music Clinic

Junior session offers an opportunity for students completing 6th-8th grade to come and play, sing, create, and learn about music at all experience levels. Students will choose one of six paths based on what they create, sing, or play and then have one hour per day to choose an elective to dig deeper, try an additional path, or try something new! Each path has a balance of small and large group instruction and learning of technique combined with student creativity and choice. SMC values the music standards of Create, Perform, Respond and Connect. During your time at SMC, you will experience the music of the world and your community through listening, participating and creating. You will grow as a musician and individual through challenging courses and music while learning skills to be an activist for your space, creative voice and talents. In addition, you will meet a community of like-minded peers with multiple and diverse artistic voices and interests and work creatively together.
