

Descriptive Title

Background

Describe the context of your investigation. What is the topic? What is the context? Consider questions of who, what, when, where, how and why to paint a clear picture. Importantly, cover why this investigation matters. What decisions might it help someone make?

Data Sources

1. <https://...>
2. <https://...>

Investigation Topic 1

Explain a perspective on the data that you analyzed and charted. Describe how you processed the data, including the tools and techniques — like SQL and spreadsheets. Why did you think it might be interesting and what did the analysis ultimately uncover, if anything?

[insert chart here]

Investigation Topic 2

Explain a perspective on the data that you analyzed and charted. Describe how you processed the data, including the tools and techniques — like SQL and spreadsheets. Why did you think it might be interesting and what did the analysis ultimately uncover, if anything?

[insert chart here]

Conclusions

Summarize your conclusions here. Were there any insights gleaned from the data? If so, what were they and how much confidence do you have in the conclusions. Be very diligent to not be overconfident in your findings. Recognize when more research is needed. If no clear conclusions can be drawn — that is OK — provide a transparent summary.

Include a brief summary of what could be done next to further or refine the investigation. This is also a good place to summarize your personal experience through this process and how it relates to your career or schooling goals.